SIX LIVES LOST IN TRAIN WRECK NORTH OF LAKE SUPERIOR

Engineer and Five Other Men Killed When C.N.R. Train Was Derailed

Toronto, April 19.—Six men are reported to have been killed almost instantly, or to have died of injuries following the derailment of a Canadian National manifest freight train, fifty-six miles west of Hornepayne, Ont., north of Lake Superior, to-day, according to a statement issued by A. E. Warren, general manager of the central region of the Canadian National Railways.

The engine and tender left the track and turned on their sides, and fifteen other cars were reported derailed.

The train was in charge of Conductor J. Taylor and Engineer Peavy, with a Hornepayne crew, Mr. Warren said.

The cause of the derailment is being investigated, and a statement will be issued later.

The wreck occurred between Tara-dale and Gamsby, on the Caramat subdivision of the line.

The six men who lost their lives were:

Engineer Peavy, died from scalds; Fireman S. Gourley, who was pinned under the engine and died in a short time; a livestock man who was traveling on the train, and who has been identified as L. W. Wilkin of Kane, Manitoba; three other bodies were found, which are presumed to have been those of stockmen, but which have not been identified.

Brakeman R. Colbeck is reported injured.

Auxiliaries were ordered from Nakina and Hornepayne, while a special train carrying physicians and nurses left ahead of the auxiliaries. It is expected the track will be blocked for at least twelve hours, and in the meantime trains to and from Winnipeg and Toronto will be routed by way of Nakina, Hearst and Oba, running about four hours late.

The sub-committee also recommended a special assessment commission be appointed to make a reapportionment of the entire area prior to final fusion.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF FISH CANNING IN B.C. IS OPPOSED

Purpose of Suit Started in Vancouver to Exclude Federal Officials

Claim is Set up Provincial Legislature Has Power Under Constitution

Vancouver, April 19.—The first shot will be fired to-day in a legal battle aimed at exclusion of the Federal Department of Fisheries from all control over the canning industry on the Pacific coast of Canada. W. E. Williams, of the firm of Williams, Manson and Gosses, acting as solicitor for the Somerville Cannery Company, will, it is announced, file a writ of prohibition in the Supreme Court against A. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Fisheries; J. A. Motherwell, Chief Inspector for B.C.; W. A. Found of Ottawa, Director of the Fisheries Service, and other officers of the department.

A claim of $70,000 for an alleged illegal seizure is the basis of the action.

The Somerville Cannery for several years has operated floating canneries. Last year its license was specifically worded "non-floating" and the Laurier Whaler, the company's craft carrying a cannery outfit, was seized at Masset for allegedly operating illegally.

In the action to be begun to-day, the cannery company will claim damages for loss of business due to the seizure and will set up the contention that all Federal legislation purporting to affect the canning industry is ultra vires of the Federal Parliament.

The cannery company's contention is that the operation of a cannery comes under the section of the British North American Act, which refers to the provinces' exclusive jurisdiction over property and civil rights, and the Dominion authority over the sea coast and inland fisheries.

The issue, which because of the magnitude of the claim, will probably go all the way to the Privy Council in London before a decision is reached, is presumed from the question whether canneries come under the heading of "fisheries."

A decision to the contrary would have a revolutionary effect on the whole fishing and canning industry, and would necessitate immediate control machinery for this major coast industry.

It is stated the Somerville Cannery is not the only concern which is taking an interest in the issue, and that several other similar actions may be in the near future.

The Department of Fisheries has already retained A. B. Macdonald, K.C., to defend the action.

Warrants are held for men in Pinawa, Ohio, where it is charged that on January 23, they shot and killed a watchman, and looted a safe which he was guarding.

It is believed that the trio may have been responsible for the looting of the Canadian Tire safe in Victoria on Sunday. A reward of $5,000 is offered for the arrest of the men.

Victoria authorities are co-operating with Mainland police for the apprehension of the three suspected bandits.

Slight earth tremors have been registered on the Observatory's seismographs repeatedly since last Thursday's quake, which caused death and losses in the Chilean capital.

In addition to a fracture of one shoulder, thigh and rib, Bennett received a cut on the head which physicians feared might be a fracture of the skull.

Lieut. George O. Noville, who was aboard with Commander Richard E. Byrd, was reported to-day to be improving rapidly. Byrd was discharged from the hospital on Sunday.

Fokker escaped uninjured.

CHANG DECLARES CAPTURE OF PEKING PLAN OF CANTONESE

Shanghai, April 19.—A mandate dismissing General Chiang Kai-Shek as commander-in-chief of the Cantonese armies and ordering his arrest and punishment has been issued by the Cantonese Government at Hankow.

Shanghai, April 19.—All reports from Nanking to-day tended to confirm the formal establishment there of a new government under the auspices of General Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese armies and leader of the Moderate section of the Kuomintang, the Cantonese political party. Chiang is quoted as emphasizing his position as not starting the new government merely to remove the Cantonese Nationalist headquarters from Hankow to Nanking, but to bring about a return to the fundamental principles of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

PURPOSES STATED

The principles enunciated by Chiang in connection with his coup are:

1. Restoration of Chinese ideals in the Kuomintang.

2. Prosecution of the revolution for the purpose of rallying all Chinese under the Nationalist flag.

3. Prosecution of the military campaign northward, eventually to capture Peking.

4. Cancellation of unequal treaties and restoration of the concessions to the Chinese through negotiations.

Chiang declares Chinese traitors, militarists and imperialists must be fought on with the communists.

TROOP MOVEMENTS

Meanwhile, news from Hankow is meagre. Vernacular newspaper reports say Chiang's opponents are preparing for a showdown, consolidating troops at strategic points in the belief that the only solution can be a military one.

Michael Borodin, Russian adviser to the Cantonese Government, and others say Chiang owes his position entirely to the Left wing members of the Kuomintang, winning the way to the Yangtze with a minimum of fighting, the path having been paved by propaganda. Borodin is quoted as asserting that but for the principles established by the so-called Reds the Nationalists would have been no different from Chang Tso-Lin.

LARGER GOVERNMENT GRANT FOR CITY'S FAIR IS REQUESTED

Barrow Promises Consideration of Agricultural Association Plea For Increase

In support of their proposal that Victoria receive a larger fair grant than formerly, the Agricultural Association directors pointed out that Vancouver not only received last year the grant to which it is entitled under the Government's usual arrangements, but an additional $5,000 to assist in the staging of a winter fair. Victoria, the directors contended, is entitled to further consideration than it received last year.

CLASHES IN SOUTHERN RUSSIA ARE REPORTED

Refugees Reaching Roumania Tell of Separatist Movement in Ukraine

Paris, April 19.—Highly alarming reports of trouble in Southern Russia brought by Russian refugees escaping into Bessarabia are contained in Bucharest dispatches received here, but they have not been confirmed from other sources.

The refugees say that violent "hands off China" demonstrations are complicated in the Ukraine by a separatist movement, making it necessary for the authorities to take drastic military and police measures.

The Ukraine is one of the component units of the Union of Soviet Republics as established by the Treaty of July 6, 1922.

A dispatch from Bucharest yesterday said:

"Violent demonstrations have taken place at Kiev, Odessa and Kherson against the 'Bourgeois states, the separatists shouting 'Hands off China'."

In the Ukraine the separatists are profiting by the disturbed conditions and the Cheka (secret service organization) is reported in full activity.

The Soviet authorities called up sixteen contingents, but the citizens refused to present themselves, many of them hiding in cellars and forests, or attempting to escape into Poland and Roumania.

The Bessarabian frontier is crowded with refugees, most of whom have been driven back by the frontier guards.

CHIANG DECLARES
CAPTURE OF PEKING

Lin's followers in the North and the Cantonese revolution would have ceased to be a revolution, becoming nothing more than a campaign by a lord with exalted ideas of himself.

A dispatch from Shanghai yesterday said Premier C. T. Wang, who is high in the councils of the Kuomintang (Cantonese political party), thinks hope for unity in the party is gone, but that General Chiang Kai-Shek, Cantonese generalissimo, is certain to drive out the Radicals.

The former Premier foresees three months of inter-party strife, after which he predicts the Radicals will continue on to Peking and overthrow the Nationalists.

Ottawa, April 19.—Canadians hold the world record for eating eggs. Last year the average Canadian ate 337 eggs, a record, Dr. J. H. Grieland, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, told a local service club yesterday. This fact, if nothing else, he claimed, entitled the holding of the World Poultry Congress in Ottawa this year from July 27 to August 4.

BOWSER'S FRIENDS TO ASK HIM TO RUN HERE AT NEXT POLL

Public Reception to be Tendered to Former Leader Here Thursday

Whether W. J. Bowser, K.C., former Conservative Party Leader, will re-enter public life in response to Province-wide demands for his return may be indicated for the first time when the old chieftain is feted at a public reception here Thursday night in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium.

The feature of the ceremony will be the presentation to Mr. Bowser of a widely-signed petition urging him to accept nomination for the Legislature in Victoria at the next Provincial election. Mr. Bowser's reply to this invitation is awaited with keen interest as indicating the future of the Conservative Party all over British Columbia.

Thursday's reception, crystallizing strong sentiment in favor of Mr. Bowser's return to active political life, will be attended by large numbers of his friends and admirers; it is expected.

ARKANSAS SUFFERS BIG FLOOD LOSSES

Memphis, Tenn., April 19.—The crushing power of the Mississippi River, riding higher against the great dykes, which partly confine it to its course, to-day caused the greatest apprehension from Illinois to the Gulf of Mexico.

Millions of acres of land have been inundated, according to estimates, due to the backwaters, breaks and overflowed tributaries, while thousands have been driven from their homes.

A score of persons have died in the floods. The damage to property has not been estimated. New breaks in tributary-leaves were reported last night, while waters continued to mount to unrecorded heights. A break in the wall of the Arkansas River at Keokuk, crossing to-day was flooding a vast area for sixty miles around. The break occurred late yesterday.

Arkansas is believed to be suffering more extensively from the flood than any other state, due to overflowing tributaries of the Mississippi. Western Arkansas to-day was gradually fighting back to normal as drops in a few streams in that section were reported. The eastern portion of the state was in the grip of the worst flood in history.

At Fort Smith in the western part of the state, where the Arkansas crosses the border from Oklahoma, there was a rise predicted and further widespread damage was expected, though Fort Smith, whose drinking water supply was threatened to-day, has resumed use of its pumping station.

Says Woman M.P.'s
Attitude Backed
Up by Histories

Kitchener, Ont., April 19.—The attitude on the Chinese question taken by Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive M.P. for Southeast Grey, in a letter to the school children of her constituency was quite justifiable, J. Woodsworth, Labor M.P. for Winnipeg North Central, stated in an address before the local Trades and Labor Council last night. Mr. Woodsworth said it had been discovered that the high school history taught in Ontario made the same statements as to the cause of the opium and Boxer wars as was given in Miss MacPhail's letter.

"They have found," he said, "that the history books say things which they think unpatriotic so now they want to eliminate that part of the book. Anything that does not please these patriotic people of Toronto must be eliminated. Is it not absurd?"

NEW BRUNSWICK LIQUOR BILL GIVEN APPROVAL

Fredericton, N.B., April 19.—The New Brunswick Liquor Control Bill passed through the committee stage this afternoon, given third reading and finally passed by the Legislature.

When the bill becomes law, it will establish government control of the sale of liquor under a system similar to that soon to come into effect in Ontario.

Vice-Regal Party Sees Mt. Robson in All Its Splendor

Alpina, B.C., April 19.—Beneath the towering heights of Mount Robson, Lord and Lady Willington last evening watched a mountain sunset that illumined the glaciers and snows of the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies and despite clouds that capped its crest, made a memorable picture.

Halted at the express request of Their Excellencies, the vice-regal train traveling over the Canadian National Railway, stayed for some time while the party watched the sunset beneath flecked clouds, and saw the rising moon transform Mount Robson into a glittering slope of crystal.

It was a unique experience for the members of the Governor-General's suite which retrained and expressed wonder and surprise at the glorious view.

Lethbridge, April 19.—The funeral of the late George Messner, old-timer of '84 in Southern Alberta, will be held to-morrow. "Down and Out, Nothing left"

THE "Bread line!" Have you ever seen a line-up of destitute, shivering men waiting for a free breakfast?

There are "bread lines" in many a private home today where the humiliations are even greater than those of the street. Perhaps you have seen one yourself.

Maybe there is just one person in it, an elderly relative or friend of the household, not overly welcome, who must always take the end seat, the last of the loaf, the weak cup, because of poverty and helplessness.

No—charity is not always or intentionally heartless, but—it is always charity!

What will you do in your old age? Only three persons in a hundred are able to lay by enough in their productive years to keep them in comfort and independence when their earning powers are gone.

You do not want to be slaving for a bare living, or be dependent on relatives or friends for a little food and shelter, do you?

Then let us tell you how surprisingly easy it is to provide now for your future independence. Send us the coupon today.

WELL DONE, VICTORIA!

ONCE MORE THE BRITISH COLUMBIA Amateur Golf Tournament has passed into history; but on this occasion Victorians have carried off the two principal trophies. Mr. "Dick" Moore—although still well under twenty years of age—succeeds Mr. "Chuck" Hunter of Tacoma as the men's champion, and Miss Margaret Sayward will relieve Mrs. Harold Hutchings of the emblem which she has held as the women's champion for the last three years.

These two sterling golfers who have restored Victoria's place of honor in the world of golfing achievement are entitled to the heartiest of congratulations. It was young Moore's first experience in the finals of such an important and gruelling tournament, and it was necessary for him to dispose of a number of doughty exponents of the royal and ancient pastime before embarking upon the crucial test yesterday. But he battled his way through by playing first-class golf with all the confidence of youth. And it is to his credit—not to mention the benefit it must be to his game—that he has not cultivated any of the mannerisms to which golf galleries in latter years have grudgingly grown accustomed. His opponent yesterday was a fine young player from Seattle—a little more experienced than Moore—to whom victory seemed assured until the contest was nearly over; but the fact that the full thirty-six holes had to be played to decide the issue is evidence of how evenly matched the pair were. Both were real good "sports."

Miss Sayward's triumph was even more notable than young Moore's, if any comparison could be drawn, for she faced Mrs. Hutchings in the final round—an international star with many crowns of victory in her possession and a former Pacific Northwest title-holder. Consequently it would not have been surprising if the new champion had fallen by the wayside; on the contrary, however, being led by three holes with three to go, Miss Sayward "came from behind" and won the day on the nineteenth green. This was indeed a striking victory.

It also should be noted that several of both men's and women's "flights" were won by Victorians. Altogether, therefore, the capital city of the Province did exceptionally well in a tournament which attracted so many players from all parts of the Pacific slope.

OUR CATTLE EXPORT TRADE

INFORMATION FROM OTTAWA INDICATES that there are brighter prospects for the shipment of live cattle to Great Britain this year than there were in 1926, not only by reason of the adjustment of industrial conditions in that country, but on account of the reduction in ocean freight rates which have been declared by certain companies engaged in the traffic—a procedure being followed by other lines. The proposed cut of five dollars, from $20 to $15 per head, means the difference between a profit and an actual loss, according to the Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Total shipments of cattle from Canada in 1926 amounted to 241,968 head valued at $13,294,470, as compared with 267,192 head worth $16,743,445 in 1925, and 218,601 head worth $13,071,141 in 1924. Shipments to the United Kingdom totalled 79,985 head worth $8,176,820, as against 110,868 head worth $11,796,383 in 1925, and 79,435 head worth $8,402,377 in 1924. Exports to the United States in 1926 totalled 158,295 head worth $4,892,956, as compared with 149,067 head worth $4,502,290 in 1925, and 133,025 head worth $4,301,749 in 1924.

It is to be hoped that the export cattle trade with Great Britain will pick up and the series of annual increments since the removal of the embargo be resumed. Canada has been a heavy exporter of cattle back as far as Confederation, the bulk of shipments going alternately to the United States and Great Britain as barriers were imposed or removed in both countries. With the raising of the last United States tariff bars, which left Canada without an open market, it will be recalled that successful efforts were made by the Dominion to have the British embargo lifted—and shipments began in 1923.

There is small prospect of the United States tariff being amended in this connection, according to the Deputy Minister of Agriculture. On the other hand, while stressing the importance of the home market and expanding it, he has stated that every effort should be made to cultivate and extend trade with Great Britain. "I believe," he said, "that Great Britain is in a position to take all the surplus Canada can produce provided the quality is there. The attitude of British traders is becoming more favorable each year. Experience is teaching them that Canadian stock cattle are of high standard. The shipper on this side, however, does not appear to be availing himself of the opportunity as against the 80,000 head of cattle Canada shipped to Great Britain in 1926, Ireland shipped 625,000 head."

All reports from Great Britain, particularly the comments made at various meetings of farmers, indicate that Canadian store cattle already have made a reputation for themselves. This fact lends weight to the exhortation of the Deputy Minister of Agriculture that our shippers should be getting more business.

TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN INSTITUTIONS

FIGURES JUST MADE PUBLIC SHOW that the growth of new insurance written in Canada during last year was about twelve and one-half per cent. more than that written in 1925. The respective totals were $797,940,009 in 1926 and $712,091,889 in the year before.

It is interesting to note in this regard that one of the developments of the life insurance business has been the progress which Canadian companies have made outside the Dominion of Canada. Indeed, statistical details for 1926 furnish evidence that the amount of business Canadian concerns are writing in other parts of the world is practically one-half of the total of domestic policies. Last year, for instance, out of $515,000,000 worth of new business written, no less a value than $277,000,000 is placed on the business written outside of Canada—bringing this latter total up to $1,319,000,000 and leaving the grand total, foreign and domestic, at $4,609,902,248.

Obviously this amount of foreign business may be interpreted as a fine tribute to the reputation which Canadian institutions have built up for themselves during the last sixty years.

THE BROAD OUTLOOK

PEOPLE COMING TO THIS COAST from China are being asked for their impressions about conditions in the Orient. They give them readily; but it already will have been noted that about fifty per cent. of those whose expressions are recorded in the newspapers go into a fair amount of detail in order to explain to their less experienced Occidental fellows that the whole trouble in China at the present time is a direct result of Bolshevism in general and the hatred of the Moscow gentry for the British Empire in particular. It is thus a relief to read the views of a man like the Hon. Charles MacVeagh, United States Ambassador to Japan, and to learn from him that no declaration of war against China will be necessary, that "China will work itself out of its present chaos," and finally "found a government that will be universally recognized by the powers."

If Mr. MacVeagh had been pressed, no doubt he would have admitted that the hand of Russia could be seen in the movement which has been directed from Canton; but his brief comments obviously are confined to a broad view of the situation, a recognition in itself that the movement, although wobbling occasionally under the weight of numerous conflicting circumstances, is a logical movement which must be prosecuted to its logical end, not only in the interests of China herself, but also in the interests of the whole world. China will take what she may or may not consider the friendly hand and hold it as long as it suits her purpose; but the wave of Nationalism which has commenced to roll eventually will be too strong for the selfish purpose which Moscow so patently has set out to serve.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

AIR DEFENCE

J. L. Garvin, in The Observer (London)

The grim thought remains. No real policy of defence in the air is possible for any country. Security depends upon the deterrent efficacy of the power of counter-attack. In air-war and this is a new point of hope as well as terror—no country can be exempt from invasion. Irreparable devastation would be mutually inflicted before any bellicent could claim a victory. On these terms conflict, whatever the issue, would be an insane frenzy. No single nation will ever be allowed to make itself "safe" in the air while possessing the power to shatter its neighbors.

Queer Quirks of Nature

By ARTHUR N. PACK

Jazz is a small, white, fuzzy dog of the terrier type. Archibald is a young orphan woodchuck. Between Archibald and Jazz there exists a most unusual friendly feeling, in view of the fact that Jazz is responsible for Archibald being an orphan. Jazz and his owner accompanied a farmer friend one May Sunday morning to dig out a den of woodchucks on a side-hill near the farmer's house. The chucks had been visiting the garden, and the farmer feared for the future safety of his young lettuce and cabbage plants.

They dug down, following the winding tunnel that a woodchuck can excavate at such a rapid rate, and finally they came near to the big nest of dry grass. "There's a!" Archibald's mother rushed out, a snarling fury, to defend her family at any cost, and Jazz, true to his terrier blood, went to meet her. It was an epic, that battle, for Jazz is a small dog, and the woodchuck was big and savage. When it was over the men pulled Jazz away and took the two baby woodchucks from the nest. Archibald's sister, Gertrude, died within a few weeks, but Archibald thrived and he and Jazz came to have the warmest feeling for each other.

Do You Mean What You Say?

"WINDFALL"

When good luck comes along unexpectedly and not only knocks at your door but breaks the lock, and makes himself at home, you are said to "have a windfall." Literally a "windfall" is the track of a tornado in the forest, leaving limbs and even whole trees falling in its wake; or it is the part of the fruit crop which covers the ground of the orchard after a wind storm. When one remembers the great landed estates of England and her peasant classes who profited in free fire wood and plentiful fruit from a windfall on the estates of their landlords the application of the term to any form of good luck or successful financial venture is understood.

Canadian Questions and Answers

ONTARIO FARMER'S CO-OPERATION

Q.—What is the extent of farmer's co-operation in Ontario?

A.—The United Farmers' Co-operative Company of Ontario had in 1926 the best year since the company was organized in 1920. Total profits for the year, ended September 20, 1926, were $172,000, of which $60,000 will be available for a four-per cent stock dividend. There has been paid out $42,000 in commodity dividends to cream shippers and $20,000 to shippers to the egg pool.

men. CFCT has delighted the writer and thousands, who, by force of circumstances, cannot back in the sunshine of Victoria.

I venture to say that no station on the continent has put over such snappy, playful, and in music it averages up with the best. Another feature of CFCT, it is the pioneer station to broadcast religious services. If there is anything in public life, CFCT deserves the palm, for it has put

Victoria on the map with our own people in the North, and after all, it is our own we should consider. I am glad to learn that there are people in and out of Victoria sympathetic with Mr.

Wilson's letter, re Mr. George

Deville.

This letter can be seen by anyone who will call at the City Temple office. The letters of criticism referred to the allegedly poor

programmes broadcast by CFCT have been read with chagrin by the artists and public-spirited citizens who have given their services without monetary reward to entertain, amuse, instruct and cheer the people of Victoria and its environs. The two churches now broadcasting over

CFCT are sending their services over the air at great financial sacrifice, and such letters were they to be regarded as all the truth concerning the opinion of appreciation of the public in general, they certainly are discouraging, to say the least.

Curiously enough, people who value the great service rendered by

CFCT do not make it known in the press and when strong letters, cleverly written, by opponents of the station are printed in the press, readers are inclined to think that station CFCT is a very "bad" station and that the radio fans have been showing commendable charity in putting up with it so long.

The station has done splendid work and deserves no blame but praise.

Mr. Deville has made a heavy investment without cost to the city, except for the appropriation so justly made by the far-seeing aldermen of the City Council, of which they are members. Now shall we return in public life, now shall we pass aside one of our own citizens who has lived here for years and whose family are pouring out their talents and time till the early hours of the morning sometimes, to render good programmes,

in the interests of the community, who are operating a carefully organized propaganda to oust George

Deville and station CFCT, so that subsequently they can build a propaganda by the help of large appropriations from the city and from merchants and business men?

I have recently made the rounds of the "envoy" of Victoria, as

William Head and on Sannich Arm and have talked personally with people who have been unequivocal

in their appreciation of the station.

What assurance have enterprising people in the City of Victoria, who go ahead and invest their funds and their lives, in public welfare? Are they to be subject to the vagaries of certain people who encourage them

at first and then throw them down at the first prompting of caprice?

We betray parochialism when we fail to understand that every city on the American continent of any size, has its radio problems. Any disadvantages in radio we may suffer

here, are not peculiar to our city alone, nor peculiar to CFCT. All cities are feeling the pressure of an overloaded radio air. We ought to be glad we are as free from nuisance

as we are.

The vast majority of our people are satisfied, there is no question about that. CFCT is an exceedingly popular station, despite all that may be said to the contrary and we have hundreds of letters from all over the Pacific Northwest to prove it.

George Deville has borne the burden of Victoria broadcasting in the heat of the day and the time has come now for the numerous friends of the station, to throw aside their slight and let the City Council, Mr.

George I. Warren, the publicity commissioner, the station itself, and the Mayor know just how much they appreciate what has been done for them now for four years without a cent of cost to them. Now is the time for all Britishers who believe in "fair play" to express their feelings and counteract some of the utterly unjustifiable and vicious criticism which has been circulated during the past two weeks. I have learned that a prominent citizen recently called up the station and said to the operator, "Listen in my phone," can you hear your own station?" He said, "No," and the caller-up stated that the programme

coming over the phone was from

KOMO, and he affirmed, "It is only a few moves of the dial from CFCT

and yet I can shut it out completely."

American Ambassador Says
No War Will be Declared in China

That there will be no declaration of war in China by foreign powers, is the opinion of Hon. Charles MacVeagh, United States Ambassador to Japan, recently returned from the Orient, and who left this city yesterday. He was met here on Sunday after he had left the Empress of Canada. His son, Roger MacVeagh and Mrs. MacVeagh of Portland, Oregon, greeted him here.

"My candid opinion," Mr. MacVeagh says, "is that China will work itself out of the present chaos, and will finally find a government that will be universally recognized by the powers."

The Japanese are very naturally keenly interested in the Chinese situation, and are watching their interests closely there. Their policy of non-interference is one which will benefit them in the future, they feel, when China is reorganized and the natural trade sources are reopened. Japan is simply watching the trend of events and waiting for developments.

The trade depression in Japan was not due to the Chinese situation, Mr. MacVeagh thinks, but rather to the reaction from the recent earthquakes which have shaken the country.

In about two months' time Mr. MacVeagh will return to Japan. He is at present on a business trip to Washington.

Lumber

Fir Cedar Spruce

The great strength of Douglas Fir, coupled with comparatively light weight, makes it an ideal lumber for heavy structural work, dimension material and general utility purposes, both inside and out.

Western Red Cedar is a light, soft, close-grained wood, remarkably free from warping, shrinking or swelling. It is splendid for outside construction, as varying weather conditions do not affect it.

You will find spruce the best wood for large doors, framing, shelving, sheathing and sub-flooring, where such qualities as ease of working and painting, or light-weight and ability to take and hold nails, are essential.

Beaver Board, a splendid reconstructed lumber built from the long, tough fibres of spruce, into large, light, durable panels that saw and nail easily and cleanly; and Lamateo, a 3-ply cottonwood veneer paneling that can be finished in beautiful natural grain effects... are splendid for walls and ceilings and built-in features.

We also stock hardwoods imported from the world's finest hardwood stands... walnut, mahogany, oak, etc.

We have every lumber for every purpose!

MARION DAVIES SEEN
IN FAMOUS STAGE HIT
AT THE DOMINION

"The Red Mill," Marion Davies' much-heralded new starring vehicle, and the film, "The Sea Wolf," stage hit by Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom, lived up to all its promises when it opened last night at the Dominion Theatre. The new Cosmopolitan vehicle proves that comic opera, lately abandoned on the stage in favor of jazz still has its charm—and that the drama of the light plays of yore is just as

A notable cast supports Miss Davies in the new picture; a story of love and adventure laid in Holland; a spectacular winter festival a great church scene, a stirring adventure in boats on a canal in the huge Dutch village erected at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for the new picture; these are all interesting high lights in the production. Owen Moore plays the Irish lover of the Dutch heroine, George Siegman, the villainous Uncle Willem and Karl Dane and Louise Fazenda make a hilarious comedy relief duo aided and abetted by Snitz Edwards, Russell Powell as the burgomaster, William Orlmond as the aged Dutch Governor, Fred Gambold as a queer Dutch innkeeper, and other well known players appear in the support

JOHN BARRYMORE IN

"DON JUAN" SHOWING

AT VARIETY THEATRE

John Barrymore, star of "Don Juan," the Warner Bros. picture showing all week at the Variety, has been criticized for yielding temporarily at least, his leadership of the United States stage to devote himself to the screen. In his "Confessions of an Actor," he explains that his devotion to the screen is mainly due to the fact that it is the only medium in which an actor gets fresh variety into his work. On the stage, the creative zest goes out of acting after the production gets set. Then comes the routine of six nights and two afternoons doing the same thing over and over. With the best intentions in the world, the actor goes stale according to Barrymore. Whereas in motion pictures, the creation of a character is always new.

DRAMATIC SCENES OF

Drums—flags—the tramp of marching feet—all the excitement and color of America's entrance in the World War is the background of "Rose of the Tenements," F. B. O.'s mighty drama of Americanism, now playing at the Playhouse Theatre. With a unique and powerful story of a girl's love for a man who she thought was her brother and an absorbing study of Bolshevism and Red agitators as the theme, the picture reaches new heights of emotional achievement, and provides splendid entertainment, as well as conveying a powerful lesson. Shirley Mason gives a magnificent performance as the heroine, and handles her part with faultless technique.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME

OFFERED AT CAPITOL

THEATRE THIS WEEK

Heart-interest drama of the most powerful type features Corinne Griffith's newest starring vehicle, "Three Hours," which opened last night at the Capitol Theatre for a week's engagement.

Having risen to the top rank of stardom in pictures in which she assayed highly emotional roles and then, as if to prove her versatility, played to such great advantage in comedies of the type of "Classified," Miss Griffith now reaches for further emotional and dramatic honors, and wins them, in one of the finest pictures that has played in Victoria in many a day.

Presented at the Capitol Theatre on the stage are "The Harmony Girls," Mae and Phyllis Keith with the noted English comedian Frank Smith, in a brand new presentation. Beatrice Nelson, soprano soloist, also appears with a delightful repertoire of favorite song classics.

The headline act offers Moro and Francis, late of the famous Fanchon and Marco revue with a novelty song and comedy offering, introducing a medley of melodies on guitar, violin and mandolin.

The Capitol Concert Orchestra are heard playing another of their splendid programmes.

LAILA

A Tale of the Days of Christ, by John Newport
(Copyright, 1926, by Eugene MacLean)

"In that case, and since you refuse it, I will take it back again," he said, relieved. He placed the coins under the cushion that supported his head. "Although," he assured her, "you are welcome to it."

She thanked him again, earnestly. "But the money belongs to you, and I have this coin." She held up the single piece of money Antonius had given her before. "My father will have the two that are left in the pouch, above the amount of his ransom. We have sufficient for a long time."

"Ahem," Antonius cleared his throat. The money he had taken was the sum that was to support Jared's wants. The soldier changed the subject. "Your Samaritan slave was left wounded over by the Jordan," he suggested. "If you find him, he might be of aid."

"Poor man!" Maryam answered. "If he needs aid, we shall give it. But if he does not, it is better if we let him alone. We may not eat from the dishes he has used; nor let him touch our food, and we shall be crowded closely together, while we are in exile."

"I'm glad I'm not a Jew," Antonius said. "So many people and so many things are unclean to you."

"It is our faith and our life," she replied, and returned to her mother's side, in the farther corner of the room.

Aaron the shepherd returned after an hour. With him he brought the first of the messengers who had returned that day.

"This is a faithful man," he said, "and he has rested. Give him the money for the ransom, and he will set Jared free by to-morrow."

"Have you told him what to do?" asked the soldier.

The old man bowed his assent. Without further words, the pouch was placed in the servant's hands, and he set out.

"Now," said Antonius to Aaron, "you must guide Jared's family into a safe hiding place in the hills."

The shepherd waited until Maryam, her mother and the servants had stung their packs across their shoulders. Then, with a grave farewell to Antonius, he led the little procession out of the door and away.

As they vanished, Antonius's head dropped to one side, and he slept; the two lamps still burning on the floor, beside him, his sword unsheathed across his knees.

CHAPTER XXVIII

It was the middle of the afternoon before Antonius awakened. He lay in the same position as when he fell asleep, one hand upon the hilt of his sword, the other resting on the ground, relaxed palm upward.

"Ho!" he said, blinking and moving his head.

A hard rain was falling, pattering in the puddles that lay before the door. He stared through the open doorway, as he yawned and stretched.

"Ho!" he said again. "I want some food."

He turned to look into the interior of the room, where Laila had waited to serve him, and after Laila, Maryam and her household. No one was there. Antonius swore a round Roman oath.

Then his eye fell upon a jug of milk and a platter of honey cakes and, wheaten bread, that Maryam had thoughtfully placed for him before she went away. His frown vanished, and he raised the jug to his lips, drinking deeply.

"Ho!" he said, a third time, with deep satisfaction.

He took one of the circular loaves and bit into it. As he ate, he discovered a joint of lamb, showing under a wrapping of linen cloth, cooked and ready for a later meal. Behind it was a tall jar of wine.

Antonius burst into song. After he had consumed the milk and bread and cakes, with a wolfish appetite, he settled back on his cushions, and stared out of doors. The only figure to be seen was that of the tall Pharisee—the only member of the sect that Antonius had seen in the village. The soldier watched the devotee as he marched grimly through the rain, looking neither to the right nor to the left, until he was out of sight.

When the Pharisee was gone, Antonius blinked at the ceiling for a time, and then fell to sharpening his sword.

"Won't need you for a while," he said affectionately and aloud, as he thrust the blade into his sheath, and laid aside the whetstone.

Later he became restless. If any villagers were abroad, they did not cross the range of Antonius's vision. With infinite labor, he managed to pull his low bed partially through the door. The rain beat into his face, but he could see, now, into the village, and watch the distant men and women hurrying through the downpour, their mantles drawn over their heads.

After an hour, this amusement palled on him, and he yawned and went downward in the bed until he could reach the wine jar. Grunting as the motion drew upon the muscles of his broken leg, he dragged the jar toward him, and tilting it, took a long draught.

"I wish Laila, or Maryam, or somebody would come," he grumbled, as he placed the heavy piece of crockery on the floor.

Not until sunset, however, was there any answer to his wish. It was Aaron, the shepherd, who came.

"Are you supplied with food and drink?" asked the old man.

"Yes—but it's lonesome here," answered Antonius. "Come into the room, and sit down, and talk."

"I have other errands to perform," Aaron said. "But your leg has gone too long without redressing."

He threw the mantle off the soldier's injured limb, and began unwrapping the bandages. There was a clink of metal, and the two gold pieces that Antonius had taken from Maryam's pouch rolled to the floor.

"You are fortunate," said the shepherd, picking up the money and handing it to Antonius. "I have labored all the days of a long life, and have not accumulated that much."

He finished the removal of the bandages, and started lifting the splints from the swollen flesh.

"I labored not at all for those gold pieces," he muttered the soldier.

The shepherd looked at him inquiringly. Antonius grinned.

"When Maryam sold her father's valuables, there were three pieces left over," explained the soldier, with glee. "I was kind—I gave Maryam one of them for her wants. And the other two—I lifted the money and jingled it—remained here with me."

Aaron dropped the splint he was holding, and stood erect.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly and the Boat

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate
By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggly was hopping around in the woods, looking for an adventure, he met Baby Bunty, who was just coming from the Hollow Stump School. "Oh, Uncle Wiggly," cried Baby Bunty, "for sometimes she talked in this fashion. 'You is a bad, naughty, bunny unkie! When I go comin' back to 'oss hovie' at 'o bungle!' and she pretended to nudge her paw, scolding like, at Mr. Longears. 'Oh, I'll be back pretty soon,' answered Uncle Wiggly. 'I did not think I would be long living with Boppy, I'm and the Wogglies in their bungleup, helping the little wooden man and woman unscramble their children,' said Mr. Longears. 'But I'll soon be back to my wife to Nurse Jane, to you, Bunty and all my forty-seven little bunnies,' promised the rabbit gentleman. 'Please do,' begged Baby Bunty. 'And here is a gift to remind you to come home soon," she added, handing Uncle Wiggly something red. "What is it?" he asked. "It's a red paper boat I made in school," answered Baby Bunty. "Oh, you don't need to be worried!" she went on, holding Uncle Wiggly under the chin with a long blade of grass. "The Lady Mouse Teacher said I could make the boat. We were studying geography, you see, and Miss Mouse wanted us to understand how boats sailed to far countries over the ocean. So she had me make this little red paper canoe so the other children could study their lessons better."

"What is it?" he asked

"Oh, I see!" chuckled Uncle Wiggly, on the watch so Baby Bunty would play no tricks on him. "It's a cute little boat, Bunty."

"You may have it to remind you soon to come home to your bungleup and us," sang the little rabbit girl as she danced away through the woods. "Don't forget!"

"I won't forget!" promised Uncle Wiggly, and then he looked at the red paper boat in his paw and smiled as he waved good-by to Bunty.

"I don't really want this boat," said Mr. Longears to himself as he began wondering where he might find an adventure. "It was kind of Baby Bunty to give it to me, but it is too small for me to go sailing in," and the rabbit looked at the brook near which he stood.

While he was wondering what use he could make of the little red paper boat, all of a sudden the two Squiggles came crawling along the path. This time the bugs were named Squiggly and Squoggy.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggly!" buzzed Squiggly. "Could we please have that pretty little red boat?"

"We'd love to have it!" added Squoggy.

"Why yes, you may have it," said Uncle Wiggly. "Baby Bunty gave it to me, as a sort of joke, I guess. But I have no use for it. You may have it."

"Oh, thank you!" buzzed the two Squiggles and after he had given them the red paper boat, Uncle Wiggly hopped on through the woods to look for an adventure.

It was not long after that before the rabbit gentleman heard, from a point near the brook, some voices calling.

"Help! Help! Help!"

"Some one is in trouble!" thought Mr. Longears. "I must do what I can to help them!" Never stopping to think it might be the Bob Cat or Bear calling in this way to play a trick on him, Uncle Wiggly hopped quickly back to the brook. And there, out in the middle of the water, he saw the two Squiggles in their red boat. But the boat, being made of paper, was soaking through and melting apart and soon the Squiggles would be in the water.

"Oh, help us!" begged Squiggly.

"Save us!" cried Squoggy.

Uncle Wiggly did not know what to do, for rabbits, on account of their thick coat of fur, cannot swim very well unless they wrap themselves in the leaves of the rubber plant. And no rubber plant grew near the brook.

"Oh, save us!" cried the Squiggles.

"You shouldn't have gone paddling in a paper boat!" cried Uncle Wiggly.

"It is too late to tell us that now!" sighed Squiggly. "Save us!"

Uncle Wiggly was just going to jump in, fur and all, when, suddenly along came Dimple and Wimple, the two wooden Wogglie boys, red and yellow in color.

"We'll save the Squiggles!" cried the brave Wogglies. And being made of wood, which floated in water, Dimple and Wimple swam out and saved the bugs just as the red paper boat sank beneath the waves.

"Never go sailing again in a paper boat!" warned Uncle Wiggly.

The Squiggles said they never would. But if all happened for the best, I suppose. And if the umbrella doesn't turn inside out just to show the jumping Jack how to play a new trick, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the peppermint candy.

ANNUAL BUDGET OF CITY NEARS COMPLETION NOW

Real Estate Board Asks Council to Improve May St. Near Ross Bay Cemetery

Reply of Grain Interests on Ogden Point Project Expected To-night

Further estimates consideration is expected to take up the time of the City Council at the adjourned regular session to-night. Last year the estimates were completed and finally passed by April 26. The law provides for the fixing of the tax rate in each year by May 15.

With the exception of salaries items and superannuation the council has nearly completed its work on the annual budget.

WANTS ROAD WIDENED
Before the council to-night will be laid a request of the Real Estate Board in reference to street improvements on May Street, between Moss and Dallas Roads. This portion of May Street is unimproved, with a considerable body of rock on the roadside, where the B.C.E.R. track passes by the cemetery. The Real Estate Board asks that the road be widened in view of the traffic passing over the strip to Dallas and Fairfield Roads.

From the Police Commission will come a request for the creation by law of safety zones for pedestrian traffic at Yates and Douglas opposite the United Cigar Stores and at Fort and Government in front of the C.P.R. ticket office. Amended provincial legislation now makes the creation of pedestrian zones permissible.

The Army and Navy Veterans of Canada ask the repainting of public seats and park benches throughout the city, with incidental repairs to this class of convenience where necessary.

The reply of the Panama Pacific Grain Terminal Limited on the amended offer in the elevator project may reach the council in time for to-night. The directors are meeting at Regina this afternoon, and a wire is expected to follow the close of that meeting.

BOOKS SHOULD BE RELATIVELY SMALL FACTORS IN TUITION

Educationist Says Character Development Essential to Modern Teaching Plan

Speaking at the Victoria High School Auditorium this morning, before the Teachers' Convention, Dr. E. L. Wood, P. Cubberley, Stanford University, discussed a philosophy for the educative process. "Education has been no exception to the rule that a philosophy must be behind progress. When a study of conditions is made it is found that, in some districts, education is twenty-five years behind the average, while in other places men can be found to whom young men come to light their torches."

A REVOLUTION
"A few centuries ago education was a matter for the church alone then came the secular movement, the theory that education was a matter for the individual. That was a revolution; he said.

Investigations have found that no general laws can be applied to education, the differences between individuals demanding changes in methods.

Dr. Cubberley sketched the policies guiding the educationists of the eighteenth century. "Knowledge is power," he said. "It does not matter how it is obtained, it is the knowledge that counts. Unless coupled with development of character, knowledge can become a dangerous weapon, he considered."

METHODS CHANGE
In the 80's and 90's, the ruling conception of education was the drilling of children in a course of annual examinations to find out if the teachers were properly complied with the directions emanating from the education department.

"That is all right, the only thing wrong about it is that it does not work," declared Dr. Cubberley. "It produces results of a kind, but not the thinking type of man."

ALL MEN UNEQUAL
"Psychologically it is an error, unequal as we are, unequal as we shall remain, should be prominent in every school," he considered.

"We have come to see that a uniform course of study, that every pupil must absorb is an educational monstrosity," declared the speaker, pointing out that this discovery has been the result of the need of higher salaries for responsible teachers, to retain in the profession men capable of developing the individual to this extent.

CONDITIONS CHANGED
"The old single home or town life of two generations ago, which probably for ever, and our young people have great difficulty in charting their lives between the pitfalls of the old home and the new life thrown into the world to shift for themselves, and many of them go to the devil."

"This has called for an entirely new conception of the educative process," he said, declaring the modern theory to be to prepare the young people to meet emergencies. In a new way we have gone back to the old religious theory, that this is a preparation for the life to come. But our modern theory is not so remote as was that old theory."

Pupils are trained more to stand on their own feet, so education has become not only a classroom activity but involves the child in the home and all the complex life of the modern world. "That calls for better teachers, who know and have interest in their pupils."

BOY SCOUTS AID
We are training these young people in many ways, endeavoring to develop character, but of nothing of more value in this world than that gained from the Boy Scouts movement and similar activities," he said.

"We need to build up the conception that education is personal development, that no one can educate you, that you must develop and educate yourself." This means the usage of every surrounding condition, education from books should be a reinforcement of our young people," he said in conclusion.

TRIBUTE TO MISS POPE
A standing tribute was paid to the memory of the late Miss M. A. Pope, instructor in home economics at Vancouver, whose funeral took place this afternoon. Miss Pope was a member of the Federal Executive.

OBITUARY

At the family residence, 570 Niagara Street, this morning the death occurred of Annie, wife of Cecil de Trafford Cunningham. The late Mrs. Cunningham was born in Kemersdale, Lancs, and had been a resident of Duncan and Victoria for twenty years. She is survived by her husband and two sons at home, one son in Nanaimo and one married daughter at Duncan. The funeral will be held from St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church at Duncan on Wednesday at 1 o'clock, proceeding to St. Ann's Cemetery, Trouhalem, for interment.

William Auld, an inmate of the Home for Aged Men, passed away at the Jubilee Hospital yesterday. He remains are reported at the B.C. Funeral Chapel pending arrangements for burial.

For more than forty years a resident of British Columbia, Mrs. Sophie Abel, aged eighty-three, passed away yesterday morning at her residence in Vancouver. She is survived by three daughters and two sons. She had resided in Vancouver for some years and in Victoria for more than twenty-five years.

URGES CITIZENS TO HELP IN EFFORTS TO SAVE FORESTS

P. M. Barr Speaks to Boy Scouts and Members of Kiwanis Club

Life did not owe any boy or man a living, but only an opportunity to earn that living, said P. M. Barr, the speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce today. He addressed the clubmen and their guests, each Kiwanian taking a boy with him.

In the Columbia there was a particularly golden opportunity to earn a livelihood and achieve success, he said.

CANADIAN FOREST WEEK
Probably the forests of British Columbia had more to do with the country's prosperity and single resource, said the speaker. Next week would be "Canadian Forest Week" and in a similar way, the same period was being recognized in a similar way, he said.

Although "familiarity breeds contempt," he went on, "and citizens might sometimes forget their duties towards the forests of the country, the average annual income from the woods gave $8,000,000 employment and $40,000,000 in wages and brought in a considerable sum of $80,000,000 a year in revenue to British Columbia."

Reforestation was a thing which had to be encouraged and the forests themselves had to be guarded carefully from fires, said Mr. Barr. On Vancouver Island, near Sooke and Cordova Bay, there were great stretches of natural timber growth. Where natural methods failed, artificial methods had to be employed, he said.

FIRES A MENACE
Young growing forests had especially to be protected from fires, and it was the Forestry Branch's responsibility to prevent these fires. But it was every citizen's duty to assist in every way possible.

Fires were largely caused by negligence on the part of campers and strangers to the woods, said Mr. Barr, and he appealed to all present to be careful and careless and endeavor to protect the nation's wealth contained in the trees. Although many of the fires were put out by the fire department, it was the duty of every citizen to be particularly remember the need of forest protection and to add this to their list of services which they rendered to the community.

FROSTS THREATEN FRUIT DAMAGE AND WIP EARLY YEBERS

Drop in Temperature Puts Potato Crop Back; Injures Plums and Cherries

Heavy frosts on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland last night put back early potato crops and threatened damage to plums and cherries, farmers in many districts reported to-day as they surveyed the results of yesterday's sudden drop in temperature.

Where early potatoes were putting their first leaves above the ground they were cut back sharply by the frost in some districts. The potato damage in the Fraser Valley was serious, but tubers which suffered in the ground were expected to again send up new leaves in about two weeks, experts believe. The early crop thus will be delayed.

Where plums and cherries were in bloom the frost is likely to reduce the annual fruit crop, experts believe. Many trees on the Saanich Peninsula suffered in this way.

PRODUCTS FAIR PATRONS HAVE CHANCE AT LOT

Fine Burleith Residential Site, Near Selkirk Narrows, Set Aside by City

City Will Enter Two Attractive Displays, Both Including Novelties

A first residential homesite facing the Narrows at Selkirk Water, on the city lands committee to the City Council as the lot to be placed at the disposal of the Home Products Exhibition, which is to run for a full week at the Armories, Bay Street, opening April 25, will have a chance of securing this lot as the nominee of the committee.

The lot is 50 by 100 feet, nicely situated at the southwest corner of the Selkirk Water, in the Burleith subdivision, which contains some of the choicest properties of the Gore area. While not actually facing the water, the property is only half a block removed from a picturesque scene of the Narrows or Selkirk Water. All improvements are in, and the lot is assessed by the city at $750.

The city will have two exhibits at the exhibition, one by the city lands department, in which a novel display is arranged, and the other by the city wiring inspector's department, in the interests of care with electrical circuits in the home. Both these exhibits will be first-class displays.

NEW LEADIT PLAN TO OPERATE SOON WITH BLACK AS CHAIRMAN

Manitoba Man Reaches Understanding With Barrow; to Tour Okanagan

F. M. Black, former Provincial Treasurer of Manitoba, has practically consented to accept the chairmanship of the new Okanagan market control committee, which will market the fruit crop of the interior district this year.

Following conferences between Mr. Black and Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture in Vancouver over the week-end, it was indicated at the Department of Agriculture to-day that an understanding had been reached. Before the appointment is made formally, however, Mr. Barrow and Mr. Black will go to the Okanagan on Thursday to confer with growers on details of the marketing scheme. If he is satisfied with conditions as he finds them there, Mr. Black will accept the appointment. In British Columbia, the necessary order-in-council will be passed by the Government.

In this way the new marketing arrangement should be in operation by the end of this month. An early start is desired so that the current fruit and vegetable crop may be marketed under the scheme.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS CONVERTS DOUBTERS

Dean C. S. Quainton Discusses Progress of League at Teachers' Convention

Too Much "Drum and Trumpet" History in Schools, Says Speaker

Making a strong and characteristic appeal to the teachers' convention for support for the League of Nations, Dean C. S. Quainton, at the High School auditorium, directed the public attention to important questions in three stages: First assertion of "rubbish," a later attitude of "there is something in it," and, after a period of growth, the emergence of "agreement." "It is the only thing, I always favored it, I told you so."

In the second stage, he said, the League had prevented five wars. Referring to criticism of the League for not preventing the Chinese trouble, Dean Quainton stated "The League has more to do with China than has the Federal Government at Ottawa."

TOO MUCH DRUM TRUMPET
"Argument that the League cannot stop war, because man is a pugnacious animal," argued the speaker, who pointed out that men had said duelling could not be stopped. He charged that history, as taught in the schools, was too much "drum and trumpet," and gave too little attention to the men who have carried mankind forward on the road of progress.

"History is the story of development from the cave man, through the walled city, the petty kingdom and the strong nation, leading directly to the League of Nations," he considered. "History is the best introduction to the teacher's presentation of the League of Nations," he urged.

TEACHERS RULE COUNTRY
"I hope you will accept the following logic, though I do not know that I do so myself. The teachers rule the children, the children rule their mothers, and the mothers rule their husbands, therefore the teachers rule the country. Have you imagination? Can you present to your pupils the wonderful future of this League of Nations?" he asked.

"How this League of Nations study is to be fitted into the curriculum I must leave to the teachers. I refuse to have anything to do with this aspect of the question," said Dean Quainton in closing.

President Clark, when thanking the speaker, stated that provision for study of the League of Nations is already included in the school curriculum of this Province.

NURSING EDUCATION DROPPED FROM CURRICULUM

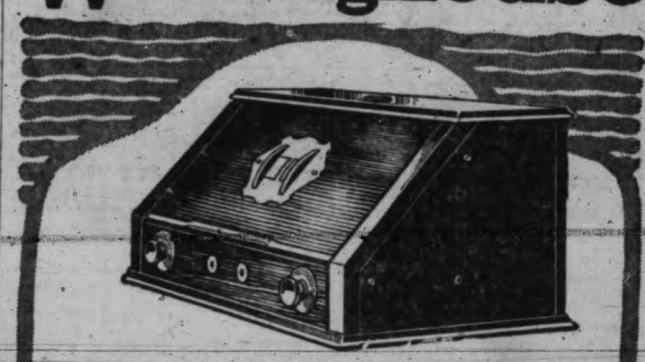

In Interesting Paper Before B.C. Graduate Nurses' Session To-day

"One wonders when, or if ever, the time will come when the public will be able to understand the nurse, because of her function—relief of physical suffering and promotion of health—the same moral and financial support and interest which is afforded the preparation of those public servants—the recognized school teacher, for instance. In proportion as public support enables the school to give to the nurse in preparation, the nurse will give back to the public in service," said Miss E. Simpson before the B. C. Graduate Nurses' Association in convention this morning.

"Some Aspects of Nursing Education," and she pointed out that the hospital training school to-day while sincerely striving to meet changed demands was in a peculiar position to assist the patient and his family in the faith with the young students who entered its doors seeking adequate preparation for a life work.

WOULD TEACH PREVENTION
Recalling that the clarion cry of to-day is prevention as well as cure, the speaker suggested that the modern training course give some thought to the teaching of the principles of prevention. "To the personal

HOTEL AT SAYWARD DESTROYED BY FIRE

Sayward, B.C., April 19—As a result of fire last evening nothing remains of the Sayward Hotel, built by the late Mr. Belmore, nearly twenty years ago. Before anyone was aware of the outbreak it had got such a hold as to make it quite impossible to do anything to save the building. No one was in the place, and the door was closed. The fire started on the first on the scene, to be all located. All that could be done was to save the barn, which was continually threatened by the mass of sparks sent up at intervals as the roof and walls collapsed. Mr. Belonger had recently assumed ownership for his wife, the daughter of the late Mrs. Groulx, and everyone else who had dwelt there, including Mr. and Mrs. Groulx, who had taken care of the place since her death, had left a week or two ago. The fire had been removed. George Groulx, son of the late proprietress, had departed a week ago to his own property across the river, with most of his belongings, which he stored in the old barn. The building, a three story one with twenty rooms was covered by insurance.

There was another very welcome increase in the population of Sayward, when Mrs. Unice Annie Smith, presented her husband, Mr. Stan Smith, postmaster and proprietor of the Kelsey Bay Store at Sayward.

WHAT BRITISH COLUMBIA IS DOING IN MUSIC'S CAUSE

During the past fifty years British Columbia can boast of its glorious traditions in the realm of music. Those who have been closely associated with the art can point with pride to the fact that the great oratorios and many of the best comic operas have been produced in many cities of this most western Province. The string quartette, the trio, the soloist, all on a high level, have also performed with unqualified success in concert programmes. Much talent has prevailed, and distinguished and skilful leaders have directed the destinies of musical affairs in all sections of the Province. Those on the coast whose names readily come to mind are Bishop Sillitoe of New Westminster, Father Fay, Adolph Gregory, and Frederick Dyke of Vancouver, and Victor Austin of Victoria. Much could be told of the musical presentations under the authentic and gifted "baptism" of all these and others, too. While much in the past has been accomplished to-day on all sides, can be seen achievement, ability, talent, production, musical worth and noteworthy intentions.

Musical progress is evident everywhere. In every centre of British Columbia there is either a music club, an organization, a society, an orchestra, a body of singers, a string quartette, an instrumental trio or a band, all contributing to the glory of the best and most democratic of all arts, and all providing for and participating in the beneficial influence of music to the world. All this is as it should be, and it must not be forgotten that there are concerned in its cause millions of children, who, a few years hence, are to become nation's leaders.

Both Victoria and Vancouver have Ladies' Musical Clubs, devoted to its cause, and both cities have their choral organizations—made and furnished—many very excellent choirs, good orchestras and instrumental "ensembles" and several splendid bands, under experienced and efficient handmasters. All these are quite well and favorably known. But what is perhaps more interesting still is that which is being accomplished in the smaller cities and towns, scattered throughout the Province. For instance, both Port Moody and Coquitlam, have their choral societies, and recently gave a combined concert in which appeared some of the best part-songs and choruses from the great oratorios and cantatas.

NELSON

Nelson has always been a musical centre, and a few weeks ago the Nelson Operatic Society gave a splendid production of "The Pirates of Penzance," for two night performances. The Famous Players Company of this far inland city is about to build a picture and play house to cost over $70,000, including handsome furnishings and a large pipe organ.

Festival Movement Takes Firm Root In British Columbia

The year 1927 will witness British Columbia with at least three important centres in which the festival movement has taken firm root. Victoria, the capital city of the Province, will open these with its first competitive festival lasting three days, April 21, 22 and 23. The Okanagan Valley, at Kelowna, also three days, April 28, 29 and 30. The Vancouver district festival at Vancouver, lasting a whole week, May 30 to June 4. In other cities of the Province, preliminary meetings have already been held with the view of sounding out local wishes and conditions, and it would not surprise if both Nelson and Prince Rupert will fall into line in the Spring of 1928.

ACADEMY EXAMINERS COMING TO PROVINCE

Appointments Made For This Season in Canada

Appointments have been made of the examiners this season for Canada by the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M., and include some distinguished and experienced musicians.

DR. HARRIS

Dr. William H. Harris, M.A., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., was born in London in 1853. His musical studies began at an early age, and at the age of fourteen he was articled to the organist of St. David's Cathedral, with whom he remained for eighteen months, taking the diplomas of A.R.C.O. and F.R.C.O., and gained a scholarship at the Royal College of Music. Whilst at this institution he studied under such eminent musicians as Sir Walter Parratt (organist), Sir Frederick Bridge (counterpoint), and Sir Walford Davies (composition), and was elected Lord Charles Bruce Scholar. In 1910 he took the degree of Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Dr. Harris has held various appointments as organist, including that of Lichfield Cathedral, in 1913 succeeding Sir Hugh Allen as organist of New College, Oxford. He has lately (1926) succeeded him as conductor of the Oxford Bach Choir. For some years he also acted as assistant to Professor Granville Bantock, the Principal of Birmingham and Midlands Institute School of Music.

His compositions include a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in B flat, which was composed for the annual festival of the London Church Choir Association in 1907, and sung at St. Paul's Cathedral, and a Carnegie award, "The Hound of Heaven."

DR. BEACHCROFT

Dr. R. O. Beachcroft, M.A., son of Judge F. P. Beachcroft of the Bengal Civil Service, was born in the Punjab, India, and educated at Rugby and at Worcester College, Oxford.

He received his musical education as an Exhibitioner at the Royal College of Music, studying under Sir Walter Parratt, Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, Mr. Franklin Taylor and Sir Frederick Bridge; and as Organ Scholar at Worcester College, Oxford, under Sir Henry Hadow, where he graduated Mus. Doc.

For a short time Dr. Beachcroft considered composition a possible career, and was encouraged in this by Sir Charles Stanford and Sir A. Sullivan, but later he concentrated on the educational side of music. He held for many years, until his retirement in 1926, the appointment of Director of Music at Clifton College, and was connected with the Bristol University.

Dr. Beachcroft has a wide experience as conductor, performer and lecturer, also in giving orchestral concerts, producing choral works and in mass-singing.

MR. MOULE

Mr. H. C. C. Moule, M.A., Mus. Bac., Cantab., son of a former President of Corpus Christi College, was born at Cambridge and educated at Marlborough College and at Trinity College, Cambridge. He received his musical education under the late Prof. Charles Wood, Prof. Dent and Dr. Rootman.

Mr. Moule is now a member of the University Faculty Board for Music, and also one of the professors at the Royal College of Music.

These gentlemen will conduct the examinations throughout British Columbia.

VANCOUVER FESTIVAL TO OPEN ON MAY 30

Unusually Large Number of Choral Classes Already Entered

The fifth annual competition of the British Columbia Musical Festival will take place at Vancouver beginning on Monday, May 30, and concluding on Saturday evening, June 4. The adjudicators this year are Thomas F. Dunhill, professor at Royal College of Music, London, and Edgar L. Hainton, L.R.A.M., principal of the Conservatory of Music, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Dr. J. Frederic Stanton, Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., successor to Sir Henry I. Wood, as conductor of the Sheffield Choral Society. All entries will close on Saturday, April 16. Already entered is an unusually large number of choral classes, and the large choral societies and women's choirs are more numerous than in the history of the festival. Saturday evening will again witness its big concert when all victorious entrants will participate. The festival is under the auspices of the Knights of

FESTIVAL IS OF ANCIENT ORIGIN

Were First Held in Early Days of Greek and Roman Culture

The festival is of ancient origin. In the early days of Greek and Roman culture great multitudes of people from all parts of these countries gathered in well-populated centres, at Carthage, Athens, and Rome for instance, there to hold tests in learning, feats of skill, strength and endurance.

Scholars came from everywhere to enter in the large number of competitions, in music composition, in song, in the playing upon musical instruments and men of prowess and trained athletes vied with each other for public favor and for trophy. These assemblies lasted for days, and the competitions set all standards for future accomplishment and achievement. In process of time similar affairs began to appear in other sections of Europe and organizations sprang into existence in many countries. As time went on the sports' competition became divided from the arts of learning and of music, and in Germany especially festivals began to appear. These were arranged particularly for music, choral singing predominating. France and the Netherlands followed, then the British Isles began to have music festivals in their cultured communities, the Welsh people predominating with their famous song festival, the Eisteddfod.

In the last quarter of a century the movement found its way to America where it has taken root in good earnest. In Canada, too, the festival has been in existence for a long period, finding many advocates in Eastern musical circles, the coming west. Alberta for over twenty years has achieved splendid results and in the last few years British Columbia has secured itself many a festival in its larger communities, the movement taking root at Vancouver over five years ago. With this year's festival the capital city will experience its first venture.

ALBERTA FESTIVALS ALWAYS SUCCESSFUL

First One Was Held in Edmonton Twenty Years Ago

Twenty years ago Alberta began its allegiance to the festival movement. It commenced in the far northern city of Edmonton and later both Calgary and Lethbridge joined hands with this musical centre, forming a triple alliance, and under the name of the Alberta Musical Festival Association held its annual event alternately in each of these three cities. Astonishingly good successes were obtained and achievements gained were unequalled in any other part of the Dominion. These festivals, too, were always financially successful, and in one of its recent gatherings over $2,000 was cleared after meeting all expenses. The highest and best known adjudicators were always engaged, and no doubt this fact has had a tremendous influence on the high standards at such Albertan festival. This combined with unusual enthusiasm on the part of the association's officers, had its effect on the people, who in splendid manner constantly encouraged the movement in their own province. It was not an uncommon occurrence to see large groups of contestants, journeying hundreds of miles in order to compete at the different festival centres. These festivals are held in the Spring of the year and usually last five days. In 1924 the official programme shows a list of nearly a hundred scholarships, trophies and gold and silver medals. This year saw over 320 entrants.

The Calgary Women's Musical Club gives an annual scholarship of $100 to the student gaining highest marks in the junior division (instrumental or vocal). The Calgary Herald also gives a scholarship of $100 in senior classes. This festival concludes with a grand concert and prize distribution on the last evening. His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, invariably being present to distribute the shields, caps, medals, etc., to the successful competitors.

QUAINT FESTIVAL TOWN

Salsburg is one of the quietest and most medieval towns in Central Europe. For hundreds of years it has had within its walls large musical festivals. It is said that a visitor once attending this festival how fond he may be of "jazz music" will come away with the impression that these days the jazz is overdone. A few more Salsburgs and the jazz would be doomed.

MUSIC VALUES OF FESTIVAL

Higher Standards Created; Gives Impetus to Students

By G. J. D.

With the arrival of Spring, in so far as the British Columbia festival is concerned—the great British festivals are usually held in the Fall of the year—the thoughts of music devotees for some years past now turn to the many musical festivals. Their respective committees have had a long and exceptionally arduous task, particularly an anxious one in the case of the Victoria Musical Festival, as the coming function is the City's first effort, and much careful, judicious and considerate preparation has had to be "encompassed round about." Practical musicians know the full value of these gatherings. They know that they stimulate local love of music by advancing choral singing, the instrumental equipment in every case creating an animating effect by their presentation of higher executive standards and attracting to their ranks many amateurs who do not associate themselves as regular music club workers. And the trend of the festival is to appeal to the many, rather than the few, not only with respect to the audiences, but to the large number of participants. Peculiarly enough it has been found, and commented upon by close observers generally, that festival audiences desire, first of all, to understand what is being sung. They want the words. They hunger for the message of the song and consequently the soloist, who has mastered the diction of his native speech is likely to succeed better than some operatic effect of pealing, electrifying high tones that fall to reach the hearts of a festival gathering. It has been the experience that the soloist who best succeeds at a festival usually is one who can awake the simpler and tenderer human emotions. There is no room there for artistic snobbery. Such audiences ordinarily are looking for those who can make them feel, with Gaisworthy, that "there's a wind in the world." It has been found, too, that the festival has encouraged the composer. It was a festival which found Sir Edward Elgar, Birmingham first produced his masterpiece, "Dream of Gerontius," and many of our present day composers have especially written for festivals and festival audiences. Many of their works, time and time again, in almost every country where festivals are held, are included in the competition numbers of the festival syllabus. It may be granted that the majority of works written for festivals are not "alive" to-day, but those which live more than compensate for the non-existent. At any rate these all served their immediate purpose, namely, to draw attention to the composers and to the particular festival. The advent, then, of the festival anywhere is of much significance. It is a sign of the times. It is a superb tonic to all, and a right-minded people will not think of themselves and to-day only, but of their children and to-morrow. The festival is of great magnitude in worth and inspiration to the youth of the community.

NUTSHELL HISTORY OF A U.S. FESTIVAL

While the United States of America have had in many music centres, for a number of years, large, worthy and splendidly "modelled" music festivals, the competitive festival has not been in vogue. The American festival, however, has been, besides its local characteristics, the engagement of two or more of the world's most famous artists or a neighboring symphony orchestra, the programme lasting from two to five days. The Spartanburg Music Festival is an instance. Here the festival lasts five days, and the official programme book discloses the fact that during these days the roster of artists, etc., was as follows: The orchestra from the Metropolitan Opera House of New York; the Converse College Choral Society of 300 voices; the chorus of children, 500 voices, from the Spartanburg public schools; Mrs. Louise Homer, famous contralto; Rosa Raisa, soprano; Beechell Alcock, tenor; Giacomo Rimini, baritone; Mrs. Louise Tetrazzini, celebrated coloratura soprano, and four other well-known artists.

This festival Association has four officers, forty representative citizens acting as directors, and nearly 200 guarantors. It started in a small way in 1894, and gave its first "May Festival" a year later. In the fourth year of its existence it extended its scope and gave two evening concerts, and an "Artist Night" was inaugurated, and a "Symphony Matinee" instituted. The festival continued annually with the exception of two years, when the United States entered the World War. Its twenty-fourth festival in 1920 was still active, this year witnessing unusually big attractions. On the completion of its twenty-fifth festival it had presented no less than 250 artists, six famous orchestras, sixteen operas, in concert form, thirty times; sixteen symphonies, ten symphonic poems, thirty-nine overtures, in ninety times, and compositions of forty-five of the greatest musicians of classic and modern fame. Its educational influence during these many years cannot be overestimated, and Spartanburg, during all this time, has maintained one of the best choruses in the whole of America, not only stimulating local choral music, but its influence has been felt throughout the entire South Atlantic section.

FESTIVALS IN CANADA

Movement of Long Standing; Choral Singing on High Plane Attributed to Festival Gatherings

In the Dominion of Canada the festival movement has been of long standing. Eastern musicians coming from the British Isles a half century ago and imbued with the spirit of the festival in their homeland, soon gathered round them those who were able to assist and many with festival experiences and it was not long before the movement became established in many of the musical centres of the east, and in many cases brilliant results were achieved in a comparatively short while. Toronto particularly held the beacon light and a great deal of the success in earlier days can be attributed to the untiring and personal efforts of the late Dr. Torrington, and of Dr. Vogt, both of whom for a decade giving unstintingly and willingly their best efforts to the art of music and to its cause constantly kept the flag flying.

In Canada the festival is of a competitive nature rather than one depending upon visiting artists, the production of an oratorio, or the performance of one of the great symphony orchestras. Its ramifications are mainly associated with the cultivation and educational influences in the bringing together of choral bodies, of instrumental organizations and of the individual effort in vocal, instrumental and elocution divisions; all competing for honors under the adjudications of men of the highest standing in their profession. From Great Britain, Eastern and Western Canada, and from some parts of the United States of America, Eastern Canada has to its credit a long and distinguished record in the interest of the individual effort in vocal, instrumental and elocution divisions; all competing for honors under the adjudications of men of the highest standing in their profession. From Great Britain, Eastern and Western Canada, and from some parts of the United States of America, Eastern Canada has to its credit a long and distinguished record in the interest of the individual effort in vocal, instrumental and elocution divisions; all competing for honors under the adjudications of men of the highest standing in their profession.

appreciation are growing greater there each succeeding year. Indeed people everywhere are more and more alive to the stimulating and spiritual power of an art, which is not often, as it showed, properly and truly estimated.

In a great measure the festival movement is providing these means, and what is more, it not only creates a greater love of music, but by advancing choral singing and instrumental playing it lends an animating effect to their presentation in better and higher executive standards. In this way this eastern atmosphere swept westwards and some of the principal cities of the West became actively associated with the festival. Edmonton was one of the first to grasp and promulgate its cause and gave its first competitive festival over twenty years ago. Calgary and Lethbridge joined their sister city, and during this time have assisted in keeping the good work going.

Vancouver felt its influences over five years ago, then it spread as far as the Peace River, then to the Okanagan Valley and this year the Capital City will revel in its attractiveness. The Victoria Festival Association during Easter week launching its first festival effort. What has been accomplished elsewhere can be brought to a successful issue here, and in so doing, another achievement is thus obtained for the advance of a noble pleasure, a higher form of intellectual and spiritual training, a greater opportunity in the advance of music education and a keener appreciation of the most democratic of all arts by the people of the Province in which they live.

Great Festivals In England For Hundreds of Years

England has had music festivals for hundreds of years. Among these the best known and longest established are the festivals of Leeds, Birmingham, Norwich, Hereford, Gloucester, Worcester, Sheffield and Bristol. Each of these great festivals has its individualities and its special advantages.

HEREFORD

The Hereford is usually the first of these, and lasts from Tuesday to Friday, inclusive. It begins according to time-honored custom with Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and ends with Handel's "Messiah." Elgar's long residence in the neighborhood has established his works in the Hereford programme. Among these, of course, is his "Dream of Gerontius" and "The Kingdom," and the works of other English composers are frequently found therein. In a recent programme are to be seen Holst's "Hymn of Praise," the novelty, "The Tower," by Balinton; and the names of such writers as Ivor Atkins, Brewer, Reed and Brent Smith.

THE THREE CHOIRS

Two hundred years less nineteen is the age of the Three Choirs festival, beginning when the House of Hanover was still new to the English throne. A programme before us fairly embodies the musical faith and practice of the time. So did its predecessor, each in its period, and many a lesson of the artistic past may be gathered from a perusal of the Three Choirs programme. These have been maintained and kept abreast of the age with safety, shrewdness, enterprise, and perfect stewardship. The present programme contains a large proportion of new works by English composers, the door of opportunity is always kept open here for the essays of youthful ambition—and such names as seen as Sterndale Bennett, George Macfarren, Henry Smart, Arthur Sullivan, Ivor Atkins, John E. West, Jeremy Taylor, C. Lee Williams, Granville Bantock, Humbert Parry and A. Herbert Brewer.

GLOUCESTER

Another big Autumn festival is the Gloucester. This commences on a Tuesday and concludes on Friday. One of its annual programmes is as follows: In the morning the "Elijah" headed the works presented. This was given in the Cathedral and there were few empty seats. Of the choir it is written: "the singers loving the music and knowing it well, left very little to desire; so with the orchestra. The programme was inspiring, magnificent."

The evening's programme was also given in the Cathedral, and among the items were the prelude and postlude from Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," a new festival hymn by Lee Williams, Sir Charles Stanford's "Te Deum" and a selection of airs and choruses from the works of Handel. In the second day's programme five works were presented. The third morning drew another large audience, the attraction being Sir Edward Elgar and his second oratorio, "The Apostles." Beethoven's symphony in F, No. 8, followed the oratorio. Included in the evening's session was the choir's "The Holy Innocents," and the "Hymn of Praise." This festival ended with the usual performance of Handel's "Messiah," still the greatest of sacred works. The total attendance was nearly 5,000 and the collections for charitable purposes alone amounted to $2,500.

FESTIVAL PROMOTES COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Benefits City and Builds Finer Ideals For Children

There is more in a musical festival than at first meets the eye. It first of all advertises the city we live in. It places it on the map. It makes the city popular. It becomes talked about, and is a centre for the holiday seeker. It arouses and promotes a community spirit. It brings people together. It encourages the young people—our children of to-day, our governors of to-morrow—in the direction of finer ideals and brings them in contact with the best in music. A music festival is moreover a tonic, as listening to really good music must be. It encourages and advances general musical culture and its educational influence cannot be overestimated. An event of this nature becomes the model for the refined and attractive in song and instrumental performance. And a celebration of a series of concerts with the best artists taking part with intelligent discrimination in local coloring and with its superb setting, becomes a victory of peace, and the mecca to which many will be drawn. It is acknowledged as an artistic event worthy of the best consideration. For centuries it has been in existence in Europe where famous festivals have brought renown and recognition to many a musical centre. Everywhere it has its advocates, and even in the new world it is making rapid strides, these "feasts of song" making in many places, a glorious appeal. As was written last year: "Those only who have attended a successful festival can have the slightest conception as to its real meaning. Its very humanism, the self-strivings for honors, the failure of the few and the elation of the many, the keenness of the budding aspirants, the alertness and engrossment of the adult members of vocal organizations, the final adjustments in its waning hours, the tense movements before the pronouncements of the examiners, the renditions, the anxiety of the teacher, the final concert by the shields, cups, medals etc., the competitive atmosphere throughout the festival are the most engrossing upon the human mind imaginable. It leaves countless impressions upon the memory, all of which must be seen and heard before one can really conceive of its inspirational yet awesome, environment, of its singular usefulness and of its supreme and superior benefits it gives to the art of music."

WESTERN CANADA SINGING IS BEST

British Musician Says no Festivals in All Imperial Dominions Better

"I have yet to find a country in any of the Imperial Dominions where the singing of the choirs at any of the competition festivals were any better than those heard at the festivals of Western Canada last year," said A. Wesley Roberts, distinguished British musician, while on a visit to Vancouver recently.

As examiner for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music of London, Eng., Mr. Roberts has visited not only Canada and Australasia, but some of the most interesting of Britain's Oriental possessions.

Festival of 1925 I heard some very beautiful choral singing," he continued. "Its quality would stand high in comparison with that of Yorkshire choirs. I am a Yorkshireman, so you know what choral singing means to me," he continued with a smile, "and I can state that in Western Canada I heard the finest singing ever listened to in any of the Imperial Dominions. It was subtle, warm—all the things that singing should be."

CHORAL SINGING

"The competition festivals were doing a great deal to promote choral singing throughout the Northwest, and were really a material help in developing the cause of music in this country," he says.

In the interests of examination work for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music in London, England, Mr. Roberts visited the West Indies, Canada and in Australasia, but when pressed to comment on musical development connected with his work preferred to make his statements very general. He was interested personally in the musical festival movement of Australia, however, and offered the comment that in Hailu, Victoria, was to be found each year, the biggest musical competition festival in the world, where astonishing enthusiasm was displayed.

INTEREST STIMULATED

Mr. Roberts visited all the states of Australia, except for northern territory, on behalf of the Associated Board, and found the interest in music to be greatly stimulated in that country. Of course his work lay along lines that were primarily meant for development of musical knowledge and executives as apart from any financial gain to be derived. Indeed, this was really secondary, and it was gratifying to find in these countries such a high standard of good music and informed capable musicians.

Choral Work in Canada Grades High

It has been said by many of the visiting adjudicators to Canadian music festivals that choral work, not only in Eastern Canada, but in the West too, ranks with the best choral traditions of Great Britain. In many instances choirs and vocal organizations have fallen little short of highest marks obtainable, and that it has been extremely difficult to distinguish between two competing bodies for honors as to which should really obtain first prize.

ALL-ENGLAND SONG AND DANCE FESTIVAL

Two Thousand Persons Witnessed Continuation of Old Festival

Two thousand persons filling each side of a great square witnessed the continuation at London University of an All-England Festival of Folk Song and Dance. The festival carried back to days long past, when on the village greens of England young men and maidens met in jolly country dances to the accompaniment of simple music. But never were these traditional dances danced with such perfection of technique or with such picturesque effect. For now there are picked teams from all parts of the country, specially trained by the English Folk Dance Society, founded by Cecil Sharp, sent to London for this festival, and they come in their team dresses—the women in blue, orange, pink, and grey, and the men in their white flannels and decorative ribbons and braces, making the great hall glow with color.

The dancing of the women was greatly distinguished by its lightness and grace; and the Morris men with staves in their hands and bells on their legs, prominent amongst them being the excellent Oxford and London teams, danced the more complicated figures with most amazing vigor. Six members of the Oxford City police force, trained by William Kimber, who led the side at Headington when a quarter of a century ago, Cecil Sharp, saw the Morris dancers for the first time, danced the Headington reel; and six men, including one whose hair was gray, less like policemen, you have never seen. Folk-dancing leaves officialdom nowhere.

More spectacular than the Morris and the country dances were the sword and ceremonial dances. For the sword dances the men from the North brought with them their own jesters and their own musicians—men playing either a fiddle or a concertina; and as the jesters made merry and the musicians played their simple airs, the swordsmen squared in the centre of the square, danced round and round clashing their weapons together, working them into a single design, and raising it aloft, and once, like the mummies of old, making a victim of one of their own jesters, whose head was supposed to come off.

CEREMONIAL DANCE

At the head of a ceremonial dance from Derbyshire walked a very tall man in a dark velvet jacket, with the riband of an ancient order, looking like some foreign count, and with him an early Victorian lady. One was wondering why the dancers wore gaily decorated box-like hats, when, all of a sudden, off came their hats, and they were handed round for a collection for the fund for helping the Traditional dancers. Another ceremonial, which took place with most of the lights out in order to heighten the effect, was the horn dance of Abbot's Bromley, a procession round dance in which a hobby horse and quaintly dressed men carrying antlers were conspicuous. For the Longways and the Round the floor was filled with all the dancers taking part in the festival, and above them towered in traditional dress the tallest clown one has ever seen.

The nickname "Quakers" was originally applied to the Friends by one Justice Bennett, Derby (England) magistrate, in derision of George Fox, the founder, because he admonished the magistrate to "quake at the word of the Lord."

Victoria's Only Exclusive Piano House—KNABE, WILLIS, CHICKERING, AMPICO

The "Ampico" Appeals to Piano Students and All Lovers of Real Piano Music

It appeals to them because they realize the only difference between the actual playing of the artist and the "Ampico" is visual. It is quite beyond the power of voice or pen to do justice to the "Ampico." One MUST hear it to realize its human-like interpretation.

THE "Ampico" differs from the ordinary player-piano as a living human being differs from a wax figure or carved statue. It has life, and nothing in all the world appeals to the human spirit as does life. When you crave for a selection by Ornstein, Rachmaninoff, Godowsky, Mrs. Huntley Green (our own Victoria artist), Laginska and other great pianists, yet cannot hear them in person—THEY will play for YOU if you enjoy the privilege of owning an "Ampico."

A GREAT help, and always a pride to a piano student, is to be practising upon a really good instrument—a piano that will respond to one's moods—one that possesses a delightfully responsive action and rich, pure tone. Such qualifications we feel are to be found in KNABE, WILLIS and CHICKERING PIANOS, for which, together with the "Ampico," we are exclusive Vancouver Island Agents.

To many the "Ampico" is looked upon as a miracle—to all it is a surprise.

FLETCHER BROS. MUSIC STORE ONE OF FINEST IN CANADA

Music trade publications have many times printed descriptive details and pictures of the Fletcher Bros.' Music Store in Victoria because they see in it one of the most beautifully fitted establishments of its kind in the country. It is a source of wonder to all who are engaged in the music business to travel across Canada and find such a store here. In explanation, Mr. Fletcher points out that when he was faced with the necessity of building premises for himself after the Arcade Block fire, he could see no reason why his new store should be cramped, or follow the ordinary pattern of such stores as they exist to-day. He visited some of the larger Coast cities for the purpose of enquiring into certain details of modern music store plans and on his return the present store was designed in collaboration with Mr. C. Elwood Watkins, local architect. Spaciousness is the dominant feature of Fletcher Bros.' store. The picture above shows the lofty nature of the main floor showroom. There are spaciousness of music rooms, and the principal salon on the third floor is of such size that a dozen grand pianos are displayed at the one time without the slightest suspicion of overcrowding.

EDUCATION IS FESTIVAL AIM

Famous Scottish Adjudicator Says Festival is School For Learning

"This is not a school for scandal or biting sarcasm over anybody's efforts—it is a school of learning," commented H. S. Robertson, celebrated conductor of the Glasgow Orpheus Choir, adjudicating in Edmonton. "Festivals are not made for the winning of medals; they are made for education." Contestants at the present British Columbia festival need have no fear. To meet this man is to love him. Never has the festival movement in Canada had so constructive an adjudicator in attendance; to see him at work is a revelation and the response to his methods is remarkable. At the Edmonton festival his kindly tact, his keen interest and his dynamic personality created a beautiful atmosphere round each and every competitor who entered the lists. At the close of every contest, Mr. Robertson's criticisms were constructive and enlightening to competitors and listeners alike. Faults were pointed out kindly, but places where improvements could be made were also pointed out. Individual singers were taken in a group and given a careful lesson, with astonishing results, for an instantaneous response was at once noticeable—and somehow in the interest created by the remarks of the adjudicator, even though the entire group had been asked to do their work over again—everybody forgot to be nervous—no one was self-conscious, interest at once intense and gripping hung breathlessly on the words of the speaker.

Address by S. J. Willis, LL.D., Superintendent of Education.

Class 13: Vocal solo, soprano winner. Class 26: Pianoforte (open), final. Class 35: Elocution, men (open), winner. Class 2: Intermediate church choir, 25 to 40 voices, winner. Class 18: Vocal solo, bass, winner. Class 39: Violin (open). First prize, gold medal, donated by F. Waddington; competing for The Times Challenge Cup. Class 15: Vocal solo, contralto, final.

Class 5: Ladies' choir. First prize, The Colonist Challenge Shield; competing for W. C. Nichol Challenge Shield. God Save the King.

Saturday, April 23

Class 3: Sunday school choir. First prize, J. C. Pendray Challenge Shield; competing for Mrs. James Dunsinuir Challenge Cup. Class 17: Vocal solo, baritone. First prize, gold medal, donated by Gordon Holdcroft; competing for Columbia School of Music Cup.

Address: His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, Randolph R. Bruce.

Class 4: Male voice choir. First prize, Far West, Victoria, K. of P. Challenge Shield; competing for W. C. Nichol Challenge Shield. Class 42: Bands (open), 26 pieces or less including conductor. First prize, Fletcher Brothers' Challenge Cup. God Save the King.

From this programme it will be noticed that the evening concerts at the First United Church on Thursday and Friday evenings and the final concert on Saturday evening at the Arena offer very interesting and attractive numbers, including as they do some competitive items which should prove popular. In addition to a large entry list from Victoria and district, numerous entries have been received from upland and mainland points, including the following organizations: Vancouver-Parker Band, Courtenay Boys' Band, Courtenay Girls' Choir, Chemainus Girls' Choir.

'Teen-age Boys Stage Thrilling Golf Battle and Dick Moore Wins

Leaders Reveal Great Rally Brings Miss Sayward Title

PAOLINO WILLING High Honor In Store TO BE PLACED IN For Winner Of Final MALONEY'S SHOES Of English Cup-ties

Youngsters Show Surprising Ability in Face of Fierce Weather Conditions and Reach Thirty-sixth Green Before B.C. Championship Is Decided; Moore Holed Out Two-foot Putt for a Four, While Bill Davidson, of Seattle, Missed His Putt for a Half and Lost; Snow and Hail Falls to Discourage Gallery, Which Tagged Along Grieved by Tenseness of Game

Dick Moore, of the Victoria Golf Club, is cock of the walk in British Columbia amateur golf circles. For one year he must be spoken of as the provincial champion. Then at the end of that time perhaps he will do what he did yesterday at Oak Bay and win the crown again.

Dick wound up a most spectacular campaign in the amateur championship by sinking a two-foot putt on the thirty-sixth green yesterday which defeated Bill Davidson, of Seattle, by one up after one of the most thrilling and, at the same time, exasperating finals in the history of the B.C. Amateur Golf Association.

The weather was just about as bad as the prairies could look for in winter. The morning round was contested under fairly respectable conditions, such as weather conditions went during the tournament. But in the afternoon the caddies should have carried snow-shoes for their masters, while many of the gallery would have paid prices for seats on a toboggan. It snowed and hailed, blew and rained and yet the battle of these teen-aged giants went on with such gripping enthusiasm that few of the gallery of 500 wandered back to the shelter of the clubhouse.

PRETTY GOOD YOUNGSTERS
The conditions were enough to tax the craft and cunning of veterans of the links and it is surprising that these youngsters kept on their game so well. Moore is in his eighteenth year, while Hunter celebrated his nineteenth birthday on Sunday.

The climax to this great match came at the home green in the afternoon. Moore played his best shot of the day when he approached within twelve inches of the hole from a distance of thirty yards. He holed out on his next while his opponent was short. Davidson now two up.

ONE UP AT TURN
The short eighth was halved in five, both final putts being conceded. Both men were clearing paths for the ball on any putt with twelve feet. The ninth went to Moore who had better control of the ball, the turn being made with the American holding a one-hole lead.

On the tenth, Davidson threw away the hole on a series of unfortunate putts on the green. Moore winning with a six against a par four, squaring the match.

The feature of the eleventh was a fine approach shot by Moore over a cross bunker. He won the hole with a par four, giving him the lead for the first time in the afternoon. Moore won the twelfth with a par five, Davidson's fifth resting an inch from the cup. Moore now two up. They halved the thirteenth in "fives" after Moore had laid an unbeatable stylin'.

FINE RECOVERY
On the 181-yard fourteenth, both were playing cautiously and were short. Davidson's ball finding the rough in the woods. The latter made a wonderful recovery, however, jumping a bunker in his approach, winning the hole with a "four." Moore's fourth was three inches short of the cup.

The sun broke through slightly at the fifteenth. Davidson holed a sensational eighteen-foot putt to win the hole with a par "four" while Moore missed a six-foot putt. The match was squared again.

Both were well away on the sixteenth. Moore dubbed his second while his opponent reached the green thirty feet from the pin. "Moore was twelve feet from the cup on his approach shot, giving Moore the lead. Moore's ball rested safely two feet away. Moore deliberated carefully and sank his putt while Davidson threw away his last chance by missing the putt by an inch, giving Moore the lead again. Then came the last hole and Moore's victory.

Anyone who wishes to play in the B.C. amateur golf championship after this will have to hand over five dollars to the B.C. Amateur Golf Association as entrance fee. At the annual meeting of the association held here it was decided to double the previous entrance fee.

The men's championship next year will be held at the Marine Drive Club, Vancouver, and the women's event will be staged at Point Grey.

A. E. Philip of the Marine Drive Club is the new president and A. V. Price of the Uplands Golf Club was elected secretary.

On the sporty seventh, a distance of 208 yards, Moore played his best shot of the day when he approached within twelve inches of the hole from a distance of thirty yards. He holed out on his next while his opponent was short. Davidson now two up.

Won Mixed Foursomes
G. L. Fraser and Mrs. McKenzie of Vancouver won the mixed foursomes held at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday in connection with the B.C. amateur golf championships. Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Goward of Victoria were runners-up.

VICTORIA'S DAY IN GOLF BUT NOT IN CLOUDS' BEHAVIOR

Outside of the weather it was Victoria's day on the golf links. While a native son and daughter were busy annexing two B.C. championships two other local golfers polished off the day with victories in the first flights of the men's and women's tournaments.

Dick Moore of the Victoria Golf Club hung his hat on the pin for the men's title after a great battle, while Miss Margaret Sayward of the Colwood Golf Club, embraced the women's championship. Both players won after terrific struggles, which stamped them as golfers of unbounded courage, determination, ability and resource.

To make the victory for Victoria all the more complete Harold Lineham of the Colwood Golf Club won the first flight of the men's championship in commanding style, while Mrs. Hutchinson of the Victoria Golf Club took the first flight honors in the women's tournament.

This is the most important victory established by any town in the recent history of the B.C. Golf Association and reflects tremendous credit upon the calibre of local golf.

The only disappointing feature yesterday was the behavior of the black clouds which floated over, and seemed sad at heart at the way Victorians were cleaning up everything. They wept out of sympathy for the mainland delegation and their tears froze on the way down.

The weather during the tournament was the worst that the oldest golfer here can remember and that goes back quite some distance.

Basketball Finals In Winnipeg Arouse Unusual Interest

New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates Show Surprising Strength

Reuther and Meadows Twirl Fine Games; Giants Forced to Limit to Beat Braves

New York, April 19.—Packing a punch in the pitcher's box as well as at the plate, the New York Yanks and the Pittsburgh Pirates are out in front of their respective leagues with an increased lead to-day.

Every fan knew the bombardment Pirates could hit, but few looked for such a pitching performance as Meadows turned in yesterday. Granting just four scattered hits, he held Chicago helpless while the Pirates pounded out a nine-to-one victory.

It was a paralyzing pitching of the same order that helped the Yankees to their first shutout of the season at the expense of the Boston Red Sox, 3-0. Dutch Reuther held the Sox to just three hits in the tightest, briefest ball game the Yanks have played this year. Apparently other of the pitchers were helped by the increasing warmth of the April sun and found new strength and cunning in the throwing arm.

ATHLETICS DOWN AGAIN
With Thurston pitching flawless ball the Washington Senators rode to a 4-0 victory over the Athletics and Cleveland nosed out Detroit 3-2 after a pitchers' battle between Leisen and Holloway. A Tiger rally started in the ninth and "Buck" Bucky replaced Leisen to stave away the game.

Two pitchers figured prominently in the tilt at St. Louis, which the Browns won in the eighth, 5-4, from the White Sox. Besides pitching eight innings, Gaston of the Browns and Blankenship of Chicago each holed out a homer which accounted for several runs.

GIANTS
The man in the box had a much harder time of it in an 11-inning struggle between the Giants and the Braves. Boston scored six runs in the seventh to tie the count at 5-5, and twice thereafter—in the ninth and tenth—each club added a run. It finally ended in an 11-9 victory for the Giants after doubles by Hornsby and Parrell in the eleventh. Brooklyn descended still further into the cellar when they were scraped up only seven hits and lost to the Phillies 7-3.

Red and Miller pitched a shower over the plate as the Athletics struck out the scheduled game between the Reds and Cardinals.

P. Hendron Quits Football After Fine Record at Brentford
London, April 19.—After twenty years of first-class football, of which the past six have been spent with Brentford Club (Southern Section of the Third Division) Patsy Hendron, who is cricket famous as one of Middlesex's great run-getters, made a final appearance yesterday afternoon. If Hendron does not secure the cricket coaching position which he expects, at Adelaide, South Australia, he will devote his time to indoor cricket coaching at Acton.

Mrs. Hutchings, of Vancouver, Defending Champion, Lying Dormy Three, Could Not Withstand Fighting Finish of Miss Sayward and Match Was Squared on Eighteenth; Miss Sayward Sank Long Putt on Extra Hole and Became B.C. Women's Champion, Terminating the Long Reign of Mrs. Hutchings

After gazing longingly for years at the pedestal on which sits the women's champion of British Columbia Miss Margaret Sayward, of the Colwood Golf Club, now knows what it feels like to be ranked as the first player in the Province.

Under Arctic conditions yesterday afternoon Miss Sayward brought to an end the reign of Mrs. Harold Hutchings, of Vancouver, who for three years has ruled the roost in feminine golf circles. Miss Sayward required nineteen holes in which to turn the trick.

Miss Sayward was glorious in victory, but Mrs. Hutchings was only a shade behind in defeat, for it was one of those "tough" games that are hard to win and just a little harder to lose. The way these women went from ten to seven, and then from seven to five, defying the cruel weather which threatened at times to stop their game, made a distinct impression on the minds of hundreds of golf enthusiasts who stayed inside when they would like to have seen these gallant women in action.

FAIR GOLF JUST THE SAME

The snow was about an inch deep in places and the greens had to be scraped to allow the players to putt. Putters were of little service at some stages and other iron clubs had to be used. Despite the conditions the players went about their job and their golf was pretty fair at that.

Miss Sayward won the first and third holes, with Mrs. Hutchings sandwiching in a win at the second hole. After they had halved the fourth Mrs. Hutchings squared the match at the fifth, then won the seventh and eighth to become two up. The defending champion resigned in the lead until the match was squared at the home green. The ninth was halved and Mrs. Hutchings reached the turn two up. Miss Sayward won the tenth, but Mrs. Hutchings got back the hole by winning the eleventh. The play continued to sear and Miss Sayward captured the twelfth, only to have Mrs. Hutchings win the next. They halved the fourteenth and Mrs. Hutchings won the fifteenth to become dormy three.

THE WINNING DRIVE
Then commenced Miss Sayward's drive, which ultimately brought her the championship. She won the next three holes and was all square at the eighteenth. They went to the nineteenth and when Miss Sayward holed a long putt for a "six" Mrs. Hutchings was beaten and the championship came back to Victoria and to the first time to the Colwood Golf Club. Mrs. Hutchings, of the Victoria Golf Club, was the last local woman to win the title, her conquest being recorded in 1921.

The other final results in the women's championship were as follows:
FIRST FLIGHT
Mrs. Hutchinson beat Mrs. Philbrick, 4 and 3.
Mrs. Abel beat Mrs. Pocock, 4 and 3.
Mrs. Easton beat Mrs. Blair, 4 and 3.
Mrs. G. Martin beat Mrs. Rasmussen, 4 and 3.

The prizes were presented at the conclusion of the matches by J. A. Sayward, president of the Colwood Golf Club.

M. Enke of Victoria Is Chess Champion Of This Province

Returns From Vancouver With Title; W. J. Barker, Also of This City, Second

While all the games in the British Columbia chess championship tournament this year held at Vancouver have not yet been completed, the first and second places have been decided.

M. Enke of Victoria finishes first with a score of four wins and two draws out of six games. He is closely followed by the defending champion, W. J. Barker, also of Victoria, who has four wins and one draw to his credit.

Of the remaining five competitors, R. A. Scott of Vancouver has the best prospects of gaining third place with a possible score of four. M. Enke, through winning the major event, has the custody of the British Columbia chess championship for the year and also receives the three-year-old gold medal for this year's tournament.

There were six entries for the minor tournament, which was won by J. Alexander of Vancouver, with a full score of five wins out of five games. He won the silver medal presented by the B. C. C. F. The lightning tournament was won by B. C. Chess Federation member, Vancouver, with F. C. Miller also of Vancouver, as runner up.

Winnipeg Will Play Vienna Soccer Team
Winnipeg, April 19.—The Manitoba Football Association has advised the Dominion Football Association of its willingness to have the Hakoia soccer team of Vienna, which will commence a tour of the United States shortly, play against local teams. All of last year's players of the Sons of Canada Intermediate Lacrosse Club are asked to attend a special meeting to be held in the Sons' Hall, View Street, at 8 o'clock sharp this evening. All members are asked to make a special effort to attend as important business will be discussed.

New York, April 19.—Paolino Uzdun, sole survivor among the foreign aspirants for Gene Tunney's heavyweight sceptre, volunteered yesterday to replace Jimmy Maloney against Jack Sharkey if legal obstacles prevented the Boston brawler's clash at the Yankee Stadium May 19. Uzdun also has a fifteen-round engagement with Jack Delaney in Gene Richardson's elimination series at the stadium June 22.

The Spanish woodchopper offered his services after a summons had been served on John Ringling, director of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, to show cause in federal court within twenty-one days why an injunction preventing the Sharkey-Maloney fight should not be granted. Taylor, Cleveland promoter, Taylor contends that Maloney has a prior engagement to meet Johnny Riske in Cleveland.

Threatened suit by Boston promoter against Maloney for violation of a contract also seems to prevent the match. Meanwhile, preparations to stage the Maloney-Sharkey match went ahead at Madison Square Garden.

Bakers And Bays Meet To-morrow In Shield Competition

In replay of their drawn game of two weeks ago in the McKay Shield competition, Bakers and Taylors and the Hudson's Bay Wednesday Soccer teams will meet to-morrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park. The teams will handle the whistle, and the teams will get into action at 3 o'clock.

Last week Rennie and Taylors were held to a draw by the Tillamooks so the Bays hope to slip over a victory.

The gate receipts from this series are being used to form a fund for the players who are injured.

Neither Cardiff City Nor Arsenal Have Yet Won Trophy

Great Crowd Will Assemble at Wembley Stadium Saturday to See Match

London, April 19.—History will be made when Arsenal and Cardiff City meet at huge Wembley Stadium in the final of the competition for the Cup of the English Football Association. Cup Final Day is Saturday, April 23. On that day more than one hundred thousand spectators will jam the amphitheatre and will see battle for the coveted prize two strong teams, neither of whom has yet won it.

The Cup has never been won by a Welsh team, though Cardiff reached the final in 1924-25 only to be defeated by Sheffield United. The Arsenal have never been able to engrave their name on the ancient silverware, though they have twice reached the semi-finals, the second time twenty years ago.

Should Arsenal win it will be the first time the Cup has come to the metropolis for a temporary home since 1920-21, when it was won by Tottenham Hotspurs.

SERIES UNIQUE
The series completed by the Cup final this season has been unique in this respect—the rout of northern teams. Including Cardiff, all four teams in the semi-finals, were from the south, for the first time in history. Something never accomplished by the north, despite its very fine Cup games record.

Arsenal vanquished Southampton 2-1, while Cardiff City qualified for the final by defeating Reading 3-0. The historic battles on the soccer field for the Cup began in the season of 1871-72, and have been staged every year, except during the war.

The teams to be fielded by the finalists will likely be chosen from: Arsenal—Lewis or Harper; Barker, Cope, John, Elver, Butler or Seddon; Milne, Hulme, Buchan, Brain, Flirth, Shaw or Hoar.

Cardiff City—Farquharson, Nelson, Watson, Keener, Sloan, Hardy; Ferguson, Irving, Davies, Curtis and McLachlan.

Barry and J. Allen; B. Simpson, A. Duncan, T. Muir, A. Webb and G. Cameron.

La Rippe of Oakland was second, with 1,270, and Charles Murdoch of Butte third with 1,238. "Shep's Smoke Shops of Walla Walla forty-eight points behind Rippe's Cafe of Seattle to take second money. In the team sweep Rippe's five men bowled 2,016 and Shep's 2,938.

WHALING TENDER GRAY LEAVES FOR NORTHERN WATERS

Will Take Supplies and Coal to Rose Harbor in Preparation for Season

Black, Brown, Green and White to Open Rose Harbor Season: Leave May 10

With the departure of the whaling tender Gray, Capt. J. Hunter, for Rose Harbor to-day preparations for the opening of the whaling season on the British Columbia coast have practically reached completion. The Gray, which cleared the harbor, is carrying coal and supplies to the whaling base for the use of the whaling vessels which will start operation the middle of next month. The four vessels of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation's fleet, which will open the season for hunting the gigantic mammals in northern waters will be the Black, Brown, White and Green. These vessels will leave here on May 10, bound for Rose Harbor, Capt. George Marquand, corporation manager, said this morning.

START AT ROSE HARBOR

Rose Harbor, which is on the southern part of the Queen Charlotte Islands, will be the first scene of operations this year, and the four vessels will operate out of that port before the season opens at Naden Harbor. The whaling ships Blue and Grant will use Naden Harbor as their base.

Asked for a prediction on the whaling possibilities this morning, Capt. Le Marquand stated that no reports as to the numbers of whales in the neighborhood of the Queen Charlotte Islands have been received. When the Gray is up this trip she will scout around and look for signs to indicate in what profusion the mammals are present this year. The Gray will return to Victoria about April 27.

ALTERATIONS TO VESSELS

The six vessels which will be engaged in whaling this season have undergone repairs and alterations during the time they have been laid up at the corporation's wharf this winter. All of them have been generally overhauled, and minor repairs

ARIZONA MARU IS EXPECTED TO DOCK DURING FORENOON

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha vessel, Arizona Maru, is expected to arrive at William Head early tomorrow from the Orient. No wireless had been received from the vessel this morning, but she is expected in the dock in the forenoon. The Arizona is two days behind schedule, having left Yokohama one day late and losing another day due to heavy weather. She has 100 passengers and about 100 tons of cargo for discharge here.

SCHOONER LOST IN EASTERN BLIZZARD

Think Storm Which Caused Eighteen Deaths April 9 Took Further Toll

Hallifax, April 17 (Canadian Press)—With the sighting of a submerged vessel with mast and set-sail protruding from water and the bodies of Capt. Gordon Burgess, of Parrsboro, and a seaman whose only identification was a paper bearing the address "36 Douglas Street, Saint John," lying on the narrow fringe of beach at the foot of a 200-foot cliff along the shore, loss of the schooner Nellie, out of Joggins, N.S., for Clark's Harbor, with coal, and her crew of three, was established yesterday.

It is believed that the Nellie, which cleared from Joggins and started down the Bay of Fundy on April 5, was lost in the blizzard of April 8 and 9, to which has already been attributed the loss of twelve men from the Boston schooner Commonwealth, one man on the Lunenburg schooner Alcantara, and five Newfoundland fishermen.

Discovery of the bodies was made yesterday by John Orr, of West Apple River, who was cruising in a motorboat around Cape Chignecto. It was apparent that the two men succeeded in reaching shore but could find no haven or refuge on the bold face of the cliff. There was evidence to indicate their frantic efforts to reach safety. Both bodies were badly broken by action of the waves dashing them against the rocks.

The Nellie was a freighter of 100 tons.

TYO MARU DUE IN WEEK TO-DAY FROM JAPAN AND CHINA

The Tyo is bringing a total list of 102 passengers. This includes three first class and thirty-one third class from Victoria and twenty-five first class and forty-four third from Seattle. Her cargo is especially heavy this trip.

The storm was bad at Langdon, Irricana and Bassano and at Empress and Suffield. There was snow and high wind at Coronation, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin and Red Deer and it is thought the loss of stock was heavy.

take a number of cannery hands and officials for the Canadian Packing Corporation plant at Cepecece Point and other canneries which are preparing for the season.

LUMBER CONTROL PROVING SUCCESS

Seattle, April 19.—The lumber mills of the North Pacific Coast area have got partially over the line of demarcation between loss and profit.

To be a success, the curtailment programme must echo through the year. Spring business, taking its natural course, usually shows a profit, as the volume is large. Rather than follow the market further, buyers of the Atlantic territory are replenishing supplies from unused transients, which in May and June will be heavy. Price depression in California is threatened. Japan is bidding a dollar less on the predicate that ocean freights are nearing a breakdown. Australia, sold on the prospect of curtailment, has recovered from its recent fright and is content to follow the market as it stands. In the rail trade, retailers of the midwest are buying on prices owing to the multiplicity of items that appear in the average car. It is frequently necessary to move a car from one mill to another to get it loaded, such is the host of yard and shed items designated.

HARD MIXTURE DECLINED Mills have been in a position to use their options as to what orders they will accept, and had rail mixtures call for stronger prices. As a general rule, however, surplus standard items have not felt any great strength, whilst specials have been benefited throughout.

Intercoastal steamship space has been sold out for April, the May but little is reserved for June, indicating less enthusiasm for the latter month and doubts as to whether prices will hold. Logs are steady in some instances accumulating.

Official association reports of cut, production and shipments for the week, seventy-two mills reporting against 100 to 104 a year ago show production of 75,875,000 feet, against 75,812,000 feet and shipments of 76,812,000 feet. Of new business taken, 44,048,000 originated in the domestic rail or line yard trade, 15,573,000 in cargo domestic or water movement, and 10,445,000 in export. Shipments for rail account were 42,445,000 feet; by water for domestic account, 25,088,000 feet and for export, 9,354,000 feet. Association mills reporting hold unshipped rail orders for 12,400,000 feet, domestic for 100,000,000 feet, and export for 78,000,000 feet, an increase in rail and export, but a decrease for domestic account, compared with the preceding month.

FOREIGN BEAUTIES SAIL

With foreign beauties who are to participate in the second International Pageant of Pulchritude at Galveston next month, the steamship Niagara of the French line sailed from Havre on April 7. On board were "Miss France," "Miss Luxembourg," "Miss England," "Miss Spain," "Miss Portugal," "Miss Italy." The steamship stopped at Havana to pick up "Miss Cuba." The ship will arrive at Galveston on April 30 and a great reception there for it is planned. Captain L. Ligez of the Combe, who is in charge of the ship, is also shown in the picture.

"Miss Victoria" will be chosen at the Dominion Theatre contest next week and she will go into the final competition at Vancouver for a "Miss Canada" title. Two of Canada's most beautiful girls are being chosen to represent this country.

Fried Foods Not As Hard to Digest As Some Suppose

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
The chief value of fats in the diet is to provide energy. The fats when burned in the body are stored as glycogen for use as fuel at a later time, or may be developed into the tissue fat in the body.

Some of the fat combines with other food substances, forming compounds, are needed in the tissues. The final chemical change is the burning of the fat into carbon dioxide and water.

Before the World War the American can ordinarily consumed about 2½ ounces of fat per day, the Englishman uses 3½, the German 2-3 and the Frenchman 1½. Since that time the figures have changed greatly, particularly for the European countries.

The fats obtained from domestic animals have been produced in smaller amounts, because of lack of food for the stock. The vegetable fats have not been imported in as great amounts. These wholesale changes in the dietary are important from the standpoint of the growth and development of the people.

The factors that determine the use of the fats in the diet are their relative cost, suitability for cooking or other uses in the preparation of food, palatability and family and racial preferences. Then, besides, the fats may contain varying quantities of the vitamin known as fat-soluble A, which is necessary for proper growth and for the prevention of rickets.

The kinds of fats that different nations eat depend on climatic and economic conditions. Olive and coconut oil are used in tropical and semi-tropical countries. Lard and butter are the important fats in meat-producing countries.

Scorched fats, such as are found in foods that have been fried at too high a temperature, sometimes prove troublesome and have given fried foods the reputation of being indigestible, but this is probably due to the poor cooking rather than to the fat itself.

It also stated that although fats do not usually cause any digestive disturbances, they do remain in the stomach longer than other nutrients, and this seems to have a most interesting effect on the sensation of hunger. That sensation begins to be felt after the stomach has been empty for some time. If there is little or no fat in the meal the sensation begins more quickly, and this probably explains why a diet poor in fat seems so unsatisfying and why one rich in fat seems hearty. Food without fat is likely to be without flavor and monotonous.

Geneva, April 19.—Various opinions are being expressed in the Swiss press concerning the settlement of the controversy between Russia and Switzerland which originated from the assassination of Vasily Vorovsky, Soviet diplomat in Switzerland in 1923. All the newspapers, however, stress the fact that the settlement does not imply resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries, including the material damage the Swiss sustained in Russia, which is computed at $150,000,000.

Striking combinations of black and white are bringing in a Spring mode of dashing smartness.

About Mouth Washes

By Dr. MORRIS FISHBEIN

There are about fifty mouth washes on the market, all more or less alike in their composition, all sold with special claims as to their virtues in preventing disease. In most instances the antiseptic powders are due to small amounts of alcohol in them, perhaps to boric acid, or various other antiseptics. Actually the antiseptics act on bacteria only for the brief moments when they come into actual contact with them. By the very nature of human contacts the mouth receives new bacteria with each breath.

NORMAL GUMS

The dentist cures serious infections by applying substances, in strenuous effort to be germicidal, directly to the spot after the pus is evacuated. The normal gums, however, need no antiseptics. Here simple cleansing washes are quite sufficient. Human nature seems to demand and to enjoy a mouth wash that is pleasantly flavored. Manufacturers use peppermint, pleasant oils, lemon or orange for this purpose, but the flavor must be recognized merely for what it is and not for any special healing virtues.

If chewing gum has any real use it is in cleansing the mouth by picking up loose debris around the teeth and exciting a flow of saliva. Some mouth washes contain other astringent substances in addition to alcohol. These have the virtues of contracting the gum tissue, or hardening it. However, the normal blood supply of the tissues of the mouth is exceptionally rich and the effects are quite temporary.

ALKALINE WASHES

Alkaline mouth washes frequently are urged for a condition called acid mouth. Some dental authorities use acid mouth washes as being better for getting rid of the accumulated mucus on the teeth. All sorts of tests are suggested to patients for determining whether or not they have acid mouth or alkaline mouth. The facts are that a healthy mouth, one that feels all right and without odor, needs only a simple rinsing with water after the use of the tooth brush.

But if a person feels more pleasant by the use of a tasteful or astringent wash, why not have it? Just so he is under no illusions as to its virtues.

REVOLUTIONARY CHANGES WILL MARK EDUCATIONAL METHODS OF COMING YEARS

Dean Cubberley of Leland-Stanford University, Outlines Progress of Education in North America in Address Before Teachers' Federation; Universal Free Tuition Brings Greater Costs; Provides Assurance That Modern Freedom Will Not Be Abused by Young People

Although modern educational methods make great financial demands upon the people of North America, charges which must increase as fundamental changes in methods are widely adopted in the near future, these expenditures are warranted by modern social conditions, as assurance that young people will "run straight" under conditions of freedom unknown by past generations of humanity, in the opinion of Dean Cubberley of Stanford University.

Speaking last night to an audience which overflowed the main floor of the First United Church, at the opening of the Eighth annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, Dr. Ellwood P. Cubberley dealt with the development of educational methods in the course of the past fifty years, giving a masterly address on the subject, "The Increasing Size of Our Educational Problem."

"The increasing size of our educational problem could be discussed from many angles, I propose to-night to take with the matter from two points, the increase in numbers to be educated and the expansion of costs," said Dr. Cubberley in opening his address.

"THE THREE R'S"
"The educational course in the school of the early days was what we now facetiously call 'the three R's.' How greatly the situation has changed is shown by the fact that we now regard as uneducated the man who only knows 'the three R's.'"

"Within the last fifty years we have experienced an enormous expansion in science. Within the field of hygiene, for instance, we have revolutionized the manner of living, as compared with fifty years ago."

"Since 1875 our population has increased, but our attendance at school has increased very much more. If you take our population increase at 40 per cent, our school attendance has expanded by sixty per cent. As the public schools have become larger and better, people have turned to them as they did not fifty years ago." Dr. Cubberley asserted, considering this to indicate approval of universal public education.

PUPILS LEARN MORE
In addition to expansion in attendance, Dr. Cubberley showed that high school tuition has enormously increased. "Fifty years ago five per cent of the school population went to high school, to-day over 35 per cent attend high school." In the showing of the enormous development of higher or specialized education. The speaker dealt with the growth of attention to the slow and heavy pupils, now being followed by special study of the needs of the abnormally bright student. He is the one who is the most neglected; it is this type of student who receives the least attention by the teacher in the average school," he pointed out.

GREAT SUMS NEEDED
"We have recently expanded the school so as to provide new opportunities for pupils, in the form of vocational classes. In the development of this work we are spending large sums, but we shall probably treble, quadruple the present expenditures, seeing from the attained results what great opportunities can be offered the young people."

"We have been developing a new theory on education. We see that it is a different thing to what we used to consider it. This has caused us to hunt for better principals for our schools, better superintendents. Fifty years ago we were groping in the dark, relying on the disciplinary value of the schools. Within the last twenty-five years we have opened up a new system and field, through the mental tests which have been developed."

"In the light of the newer psychology we have worked out an entirely new philosophy of teaching. As we have worked over this problem new life has come to us all, and we have come to a new shaping of our objectives," he said.

"Educational experts have come to an entirely new organization of the teaching system. In place of the old method of training children, courses of study now provide material in proportion to the abilities of the pupil, the brighter being advanced above the average student."

"SLAUGHTER HOUSE" AVOIDED
"One of the important steps in this educational revolution is the organization of a junior high school. This has been found a practical advantage over the old ninth grade, described by Dr. Cubberley as 'the slaughterhouse' of the aspirations of thousands of young people."

PLAN PROFITABLE
"This reorganization has required new buildings, new text-books and other heavy expenses in the states which have adopted the change, but has been found well worth all the cost and study involved."

Dr. Cubberley frankly dealt with conditions he deplored as existing at many overcrowded colleges, where lack of supervision and other defects cause many thousands of young men and women to acquire bad habits of study and living. He stated that in many states the universities are working towards abolition of freshmen classes, receiving recruitments from a large number of small affiliated specialized colleges.

At the other extreme of the educational system there has been a great increase in the adoption of kindergarten work, this merging into primary work, with teachers who specialize in one class of instruction.

HOUSEWIVES WILL SEE MODEL BAKERY AT PRODUCTS FAIR

Man's Knowledge of Cooking Has Progressed Far Since the Days of Pharaohs

Modern Science of Electric Cooking Has Revolutionized Former Methods

It is a far cry from the rush-fire ovens of the Egyptians and the heated stones of Indian camps to the electrically operated moving ovens of to-day. Housewives visiting the Home Products Exhibition this year will see the modern electric bakery in full operation. From dough to loaf, and from the wet round splash of biscuit dough to the crisp and steaming biscuit will be explained in a moving exhibit to be entered by Shelly Bros.

In the tombs of the Pharaohs archaeologists of the latter day have found models of bakeries, with Lilliputian figures of the bakers and servants who were supposed to provide for the wants of the departed kings on their long journey into another world. From these models modern science has learned of the primitive but effective means of making bread in days 2000 years ago. Bread was hand-made in those days. Vastly changed, but still of the same supreme interest to the people of the world, the making of bread is to-day a fine, if mechanical art. Electric moving tables carry the dough under graduated temperatures, so that the precise result required will be obtained. At every point what the good housewife would do in her own kitchen is anticipated and produced by automatic controls in the model bakery.

An unusual exposition of what modern achievement has done in revolutionizing the art of cooking will be shown to patrons at the Home Products Exhibition. The exhibition opens on April 25 and will continue during that week at the Armories.

Every class of product made in Victoria, almost without exception, will be shown at the exhibition. The list contains a variety of articles far outside the knowledge of the average citizen of what is being successfully made and sold here, to say nothing of the foreign markets opening for Victoria-made goods.

Moving exhibits, demonstrations, unique first showings of recently patented devices, and a strong programme of entertainment and music will make the exhibition this year an outstanding one.

TEMPORARY ZONING TO BE DISCUSSED
Measure to Give City Power to Deal With Infractions to Go to Council

A temporary zoning-by-law to hold force in the interval between the operation of a full town-planning measure and the present system of uncontrolled occupation will be laid before the adjourned regular session of the City Council this evening.

Notice of motion was filed by Alderman E. S. Woodward over the week-end, acting for the industrial committee which under Alderman H. C. Holmes is at work on the measure.

The primary object of the temporary by-law is to give weight to the council's decision to withhold permits in cases that appear as an obvious breach of town-planning laws, or in the case of applications intended to defeat the zoning regulations by rushing building construction before the machinery of the new regulations can be passed. The Town-Planning Act gives the city authority to stay construction for a two-months period in certain cases, in which time the complete plan will be in operation it is expected.

Modern Improvements
"Jack's always up to date, isn't he?"
"I'll say so. He's trying to put four-wheel brakes on his bicycle now."

Before dispersing for the Easter holidays the pupils of the West Saanich School were entertained by their teachers, Miss Anderson and Miss Wilkinson, to an Easter egg hunt. Chocolate eggs had been hidden in the woods adjoining the schoolhouse, and a very merry time was spent by the children in a search for them. Some were more fortunate than others, but each child had at least one egg. A mystery box also provided further pleasure. School will be reassembled on Monday, April 25.

CATHOLIC PRIEST IS OFF TO ENGLAND

Rev. Father Deeley to Celebrate Twenty-five Years in Priesthood

Sunday evening in the library of the Bishop's Palace, View Street, a large number of the congregation of St. Andrew's Cathedral and other friends assembled to bid farewell to Rev. Father Pascal Deeley, who is leaving to-day for his home in England, where he will celebrate the twenty-fifth year of his ordination to the priesthood.

An address was read by Dr. J. L. Thompson, and Father Deeley was presented with a purse, with many good wishes for a happy holiday and a safe return, which will probably be in August. Father Deeley will visit several parts of the Old Land during his vacation. Reverend Father Silver spoke to the address and Rev. Father Anselm Wood added tributes of praise to the work of Father Deeley during his short stay in Victoria, where he has endeared himself to so many people.

Father Deeley replied and spoke feelingly of the kindness and hearty co-operation shown him in Victoria. He was surprised and pleased with the friendliness of the farewell and would be glad to come back to his friends and parishioners. All the arrangements were in the hands of the Altar Society under the direction of the president, Mrs. W. W. Balnes.

Only one perpetual pension is now being paid by the British government. This is the annual sum of 25,000 to the holder of the Nelson earldom.
